Grueling Campaign Closes

U.S. Defense Pledge Made By Kennedy

Demo Candidate Promises 'Peace Through Strength'

BOSTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy—showing no letup in his back-breaking campaign for the presidency — made a climactic election eve pledge Monday night to strengthen America's military power "to a point where no aggressor will dare attack."

"I pledge myself and my party to begin work immediately on a program to achieve peace through strength," he said in a speech prepared for a giant home town rally in Boston.

His appearance in the jammed Sports Arena capped a day's tour of New England. It followed a torchlight parade through downtown Boston after he arrived behind schedule from Manchester, N. H., the last stop before he came home.

His arrival was delayed so he could make one additional telecast from Manchester immediately after his opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, completed a four-hour telethon.

Refers To Religious Issue

Kennedy spoke only half an hour on TV answering questions put to him by his three sisters.

He explained his wife, Jacqueline, could not be with him because she is expecting a child in about three weeks.

In answer to one question on the religious issue, Kennedy said Americans "should not be concerned" about it.

He said that if he, a Catholic, came under improper influence of any person or group—after election—"I should properly be subject to impeachment."

Noting that several members of the U. S. Supreme Court were of his faith, Kennedy said his first duty would be to defend the Constitution.

"If any person, the Pope, anyone, should attempt to bring improper influence, then I should tell that person that it was highly improper," he added.

"Words' Won't Bring Peace

"It may be," Kennedy continued, "that the people will want to elect a Republican president. If they do, I hope it is on the basis of the man and not on this matter."

Earlier in the day he spoke in Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont and New Hampshire.

He repeated his verbal assault on Nixon for what he said was Nixon's belief that peace could be achieved through conferences, "special missions and propaganda gimmicks."

"Word and gestures—talks and visits—will not bring peace in the future," Kennedy said, "just as they have failed to bring peace during the past eight years."

Nixon Sets Precedent In Telethon

Candidate Answers Nation's Questions In 4-Hour Talkfest

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon pounded down the home stretch of the 1960 presidential race Monday, whipping out answers to the nation's questions in a four-hour television talkfest.

The 47-year-old candidate's telethon appearance over a 125-station network was unprecedented in the history of presidential campaigning.

It was nearly the end of a pell-mell, 7,200-mile last-minute swing which began in California and headed to its end there sometime after midnight.

This last-minute drive carried him through Alaska, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois.

Nixon made a next-to-final effort to round up votes for Tuesday by appearing on television from Chicago later Monday night. The nationwide hookup included an appearance on the screen by President Eisenhower in Washington and Nixon's running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, in Boston.

Wide-Ranging Questions

The questions propounded to the bone-tired candidate during the telethon ranged all over the landscape.

He reiterated his stand against federal aid to help pay teachers salaries, said he didn't believe the minimum wage should be raised above $1.15 and declared that "a matter of major importance is to break the stalemate on the testing of atomic devices."

On the subject of atomic tests, Nixon said the Communists were filibustering on the issue at Geneva and "they may be cheating."

He said he would try to break the deadlock and try to gain some agreement to use the atom for peaceful purposes—"to dig canals, move mountains."

Nixon wore a heavy pink shade of lipstick for his telethon. He smiled only occasionally. The strain was showing. Sometimes he appeared short-tempered.

No Recession, Nixon Says

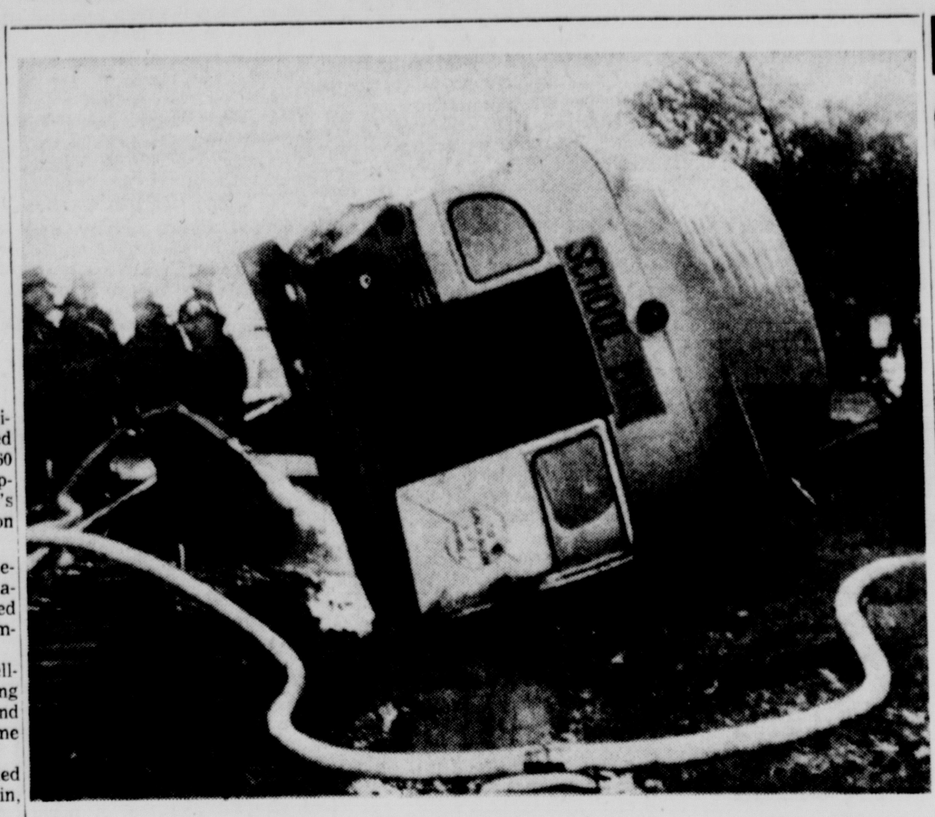
To a question about the state of the economy, Nixon replied "There isn't going to be a recession." He added that the best way to insure real jobs for the unemployed was an expanding economy.

Nixon arrived in Detroit shortly after 11 a.m. and drove the 16 miles to the Ford Auditorium under clear, crisp skies.

Nixon's big pitch throughout the day was that he was best fitted to keep America out of war and to control the Communist threat to the Western world.

In the course of a 30-minute rally at the Ford Auditorium on the Detroit River, Nixon brought shouts when he asserted that the Republicans were best qualified to safeguard the nation from "nuclear disaster."

A capacity crowd of 3,000 jammed the auditorium and another 4,000 waited outside.



School Bus Struck By Train

Police said the bus driver stopped at the crossing and then moved across the tracks. The driver said the sun blinded him. The bus carried 51 youngsters ranging in age from 5 to 8. (AP Photofax)

Record Vote Of 67 Million Anticipated

Pollsters Leaning Toward Kennedy; Prestige Top Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon fought to the bitter end Monday never letting up a minute, in their furious battle for the presidency.

Both Republican Nixon and Democrat Kennedy acted as though they were running scared—the politicians' term for taking nothing at all for granted.

If Kennedy had the edge this election eve, as most pollsters and professional guessers figured, he didn't show it. He was campaigning hard in, of all places, his native New England.

And Nixon, the first candidate ever to carry his campaign into every state, outdid himself in vigorous effort.

A four-hour stint of answering questions on television from Detroit was just one item for the vice president. There was also a late-hour appearance on TV with President Eisenhower, one more appeal to keep the White House in Republican hands.

Kennedy, already with a major address arranged at historic Faneuil Hall in Boston, took another half-hour of air time to reply to Nixon's Detroit telethon. Tuesday this grueling campaign, so tough that newsmen had to cover it by platoons, will be history—history with a last chapter written by an estimated 67 million voters, a record.

Battle Of Young Men

They will choose between two of the youngest men ever to run for president; Nixon is 47 and Kennedy is 43.

If the voters choose on the basis of personalities—and admittedly the campaign issues have never stirred a tremendous amount of interest—there will be differences aplenty to consider.

In addition to their comparative youth and the fact that both were naval officers in World War II, the two men are as far apart as their home towns—Boston, Mass., for Kennedy and Whittier, Calif., for Nixon.

Kennedy is the son of a multimillionaire, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy. He is a Harvard graduate who won a Pulitzer Prize for his book, "Profiles in Courage."

Mrs. Kennedy, the former Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, was an inquiring photographer for a Washington newspaper when Kennedy met her. They have a young daughter, and are expecting another child.

Nixon Son Of Grocer

Nixon is the son of a grocer, and attended Whittier College in California before getting a law degree at Duke University in North Carolina. As a congressman he won fame in the investigation of Alger Hiss, who was later convicted for passing government secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

Mrs. Nixon, christened Thelma Ryan but always called Pat, was teaching school when they met. They have two daughters, Tricia, 14, and Julie, 12.

In addition to electing a president and vice president Tuesday, the voters will elect 34 senators, 437 members of the House of Representatives and 27 governors.

The Senate is now split 66-34 in favor of the Democrats and the House has a Democratic edge of 283-154. No one expects the Republicans to win control of the Senate and few accord them any chance to do more than reduce

Political Pros See Big Congress Vote, Many Split Ballots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both parties look for a whopping big vote and a lot of ballot splitting in the congressional elections.

They and neutral specialists figure the heat of this campaign should draw a vote for Senate and House seats at least close to the 1956 record.

That was the year Republican President Dwight D. Eisenhower won re-election in a landslide while the Democrats were winning control of Congress.

How the voters split their ballots then is evidenced in the results and the vote totals — 35.5 million for Eisenhower, 25.7 million for Democrat Adlai E. Stevenson; in House races the vote was 29.8 million for Democrats and 28.6 million for Republicans. In the Senate, the vote in contests in 32 states was 22.1 million for Democrats and 21.2 million for Republicans.

All of the 437 House seats and 34 of the Senate's 100 seats are at stake in the congressional elections this year. The Democrats outnumber the Republicans 283 to 154 in the House, counting the vacancies) and hold a 66-34 edge in the Senate.

The pros of politics predict the Democrats will hold control of Congress, possibly by reduced margins, unless there is a landslide they don't foresee in the presidential vote.

No matter what the outcome of the congressional elections, the coalitions of Northern Republicans and Southern Democrats which have wielded great power and influence in both branches over the years seems certain to remain a potent influence.

Mathematically, it is possible but unlikely for a Republican tide to wash out the 32-vote Democratic edge in the Senate.

Four Southern Democrats are running for Senate re-election unopposed by Republicans — Sens. John L McClellan in Arkansas, Richard B. Russell in Georgia, Strom Thurmond in South Carolina, and A. Willis Robertson in Virginia.

Even ardent Republicans don't predict their party can win a Senate majority, but they do predict gains. Their eyes are mainly on the doubtful races in nine states—Delaware, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, West Virginia and Wyoming, for seats now held by Democrats, and Colorado, Iowa and Idaho, for seats now held by the Republicans.

The Democrats have waged an all-out fight to defeat Republican Sen. Karl E. Mundt in South Dakota, but the Mundt forces now count him as "reasonably safe" for re-election.

The Democrats go into the House election with 73 of their contenders for seats unopposed. The Republicans have only two unopposed candidates.

Bomb Is Found Inside Package Mailed To Nixon

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Postal authorities — suspicious of a package which had written on it, "pull string to open" found a bomb Monday addressed to Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Washington.

Postmaster Earl Roberts said the device was known as an artillery simulator—used for training exercises. "I understand that it is fatal in close proximity," he said.

Roberts said postal workers became suspicious during a routine check of mail posted at the main office in downtown San Diego.

The brown-paper covered package was about the size of a jar of instant coffee, he said, and tied with cotton string. One end of the string led inside to the triggering device.

"We didn't pull it," he said, "so I don't know if that would have made it go off."

The bomb was taken to Ft. Rosecrans for deactivation.

It is not known when the bomb was mailed or by whom, Roberts said. He said it carried no return address. It had not gone through the cancellation machine.

Ike Pleads For Nixon's Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Monday night called for the election of Richard M. Nixon so that the United States can have "the most experienced, the most responsible leadership we can produce."

The Chief Executive asked the country's voters to consider what effect Tuesday's balloting will have on their children and grandchildren—including his own four grandchildren. He asked:

"Will they, years from now, live in a country still strong and free; still prosperous with its economy undamaged by the cancer of inflation; still dynamic in its philosophy of free enterprise. . with the government the partner of the people—not the boss?

"Will our nation still be the respected leader of free peoples in a world of peace?"

"No one can answer these questions tonight," the President said, then added:

"I do pray that we, here and now, in this election give to these young Americans the best possible chance of inheriting from us a sound republic.

"I do pray that the man we choose to be your — and my — president for the next four years is endowed with wisdom, common sense experience and character."

The President made his plea on Nixon's behalf in a speech prepared for nationwide television delivery.

Finch Retrial Ends In Hung Jury; No. 3 Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Finch murder trial No. 2 ended Monday in bitter disagreement just as did Finch trial No. 1. and there will be a Finch trial No. 3.

Jurors were unable to reach a verdict and were discharged.

But there was a difference Monday. The foreman of the panel of 11 women and one man disclosed the vote was unanimous in favor of convicting Dr. R. Bernard Finch of murdering his socialite wife—but there could be no conviction because jurors could not get together on whether it was first- or second-degree murder.

The vote on the surgeon's shapely onetime mistress and co-defendant, Carole Tregoff, foreman Edwin Fry told newsmen, was 9-3 in favor of conviction.

In open court, the foreman did not specify how the jurors were divided.

On Dr. Finch, Fry said, the vote was 9-3 in favor of a first-degree murder conviction in preference to second degree; 9-3 on charges of conspiracy to commit murder. The 9-3 vote on Miss Tregoff, he said, was for conviction on both counts.

The defendants took the outcome calmly and without comment.

The jury had deliberated nearly 70 hours since getting the case last Oct. 19 after a 17-week trial. It took 59 ballots and 11 of the 12 felt agreement was impossible. The jury in the first trial deliberated 37 hours over eight days, before agreeing it could not agree. Jury No. 1 divided 10-2 in favor of convicting Finch, 8-4 in favor of acquitting Miss Tregoff.

Superior Court Judge Leroy Dawson, who called jurors in last week and told them he thought the bullet-in-the-back slaying of Barbara Jean Finch was willful murder, bitterly criticized the panel after discharging it.

"Obviously," he said, "the case should be retried." He set Jan. 3 for trial No. 3.

36 Reported Killed In Airliner Crash

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — An Ecuadorean airliner with 36 persons aboard crashed into a mountain Monday night in bad weather on a flight from Guayaquil to Quito.

First reports said all aboard were killed, including 10 high officials of the Ecuadorean government.

The plane crashed shortly after its pilot reported that bad weather would make the landing in Quito difficult. It struck the mountain and burst into flames.

President Will Be Early-Bird Voter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower plans to be among the nation's early - bird voters Tuesday.

The White House said the President intends to fly to Gettysburg, Pa., by helicopter and cast his ballot for the Nixon-Lodge ticket shortly after the polls open at 7 a.m.

As he has since 1956, Eisenhower will vote at the Barlow Township fire house, situated several miles from the President's farm.

Eisenhower's helicopter will leave the White House lawn about 6:20 a.m. EST, flying directly to the fire house. The President will return to Washington immediately after he casts his ballot.

The White House said the President's son, Army Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, probably will accompany his father and vote at the same time. The President's wife will drive to Gettysburg to vote later in the day, probably accompanied by her daughter - in-law, Mrs. Barbara Eisenhower.

Congo Debate Delayed By U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly Monday decided to delay debate on the Congo for 24 hours in order to permit President Joseph Kasavubu to take part.

By a vote of 61-12 with 12 abstentions the assembly thus put off until Tuesday what promised to be a full-scale airing of the complicated problems of the chaotic young African republic.

Kasavubu arrived in New York too late to attend the afternoon meeting of the assembly to take up a resolution by eight Asian-African nations seeking immediate seating of a Congo delegation representing his political foe, the deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The Congo president told reporters at Idlewild Airport that the Congo crisis was one for the Congolese people to settle without any outside pressures.

Teacher Strike Disrupts N. Y. School System

NEW YORK (AP) — The first teachers strike in the city's history Monday disrupted the nation's largest public school system. Caught in the dispute over wages and union benefits were a million pupils, some of whom ran wild for lack of classroom supervision.

Leaders of the striking United Federation of Teachers predicted the walkout would snowball among the system's 40,000 public school teachers. The union, claiming only a minority of the total, estimated 15,000 already were on strike.

However, School Supt. John J. Theobold forecast a quick collapse of the strike. He minimized its impact, admitting only that about 4,600 teachers were out. These he ordered immediately suspended. Mayor Robert F. Wagner backed him up.

The strike's real test was expected to come Wednesday, Tuesday and Friday are legal holidays —Election Day and Veterans Day —with all public and parochial schools in the city closed.

Approximately 400,000 pupils in 830 private and parochial schools were not involved in the strike.

The walkout was confined to the city's 837 public schools. Slightly more than 250 were picketed. Most of them managed to eke out a fairly normal day of classes. But several were forced to close their doors at noon. In others, classes were forgotten and pupils herded into auditoriums and cafeterias for supervision—but no instruction. The union claimed they passed their time watching movies or playing games.

In an attempt to fill gaps in the teaching ranks, the board of education pressed supervisory personnel into classroom assignments.

One Perishes In Hotel Fire

NEW YORK (UPI)—One man died and 16 other persons were affected by smoke Monday when fire broke out in the 2,004-room Hotel New Yorker, largest hotel in Manhattan.

The fire on the sixth floor sent huge clouds of smoke billowing through the hotel, forcing about 300 guests and employes to flee into the streets.

More than 40 firemen confined the fire to the sixth floor and brought it under control in 25 minutes. Hotel employes and elevator operators joined firemen in ranging through the 41 - story structure to lead choking, guests from their rooms.

Thick, black smoke gushed through elevator shafts and conduits and emerged at the top of the skyscraper, mushrooming into the sky.

Police identified the dead man as Manuel Veneziano, 61, a hotel painter who was working on the 37th floor when the heavy smoke trapped him. He collapsed and died, apparently of a heart attack, while trying to grope his way to safety.

Hoodlum Sobs As He Tells Of Drowning Judge, Wife

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A tearful hoodlum told a court Monday he was paid $2,000 to kidnap and drown one of Florida's most respected circuit judges.

Ex-convict Floyd Holzapfel, 36, said he was hired for the job by Joseph A. Peel Jr., a municipal judge who feared the slain judge, C. E. Chillingworth, would have him disbarred for running a bolita (gambling) racket.

Holzapfel sobbed as he told of plotting the slaying in June 1955, going to the oceanfront Chillingworth home near here, gaining admission by a ruse, seizing the judge and his wife, weighting them with chains and loading them on a rented boat to be dumped at sea.

The conspirators had not planned to drown Mrs. Chillingworth, Holzapfel told a crowded courtroom, but she was doomed because she witnessed the judge's seizure.

Holzapfel testified during what was scheduled to be a preliminary hearing for Peel, arrested last Friday at Chattanooga, Tenn. However, Peel was granted a postponement to next Monday.

After the Chillingworths were drowned, Holzapfel said, Peel wanted to arrange the murder of State Atty. Phil O'Connell of West Palm Beach, then working on the case. O'Connell now is prosecuting Peel and Holzapfel.

Holzapfel said he was accompanied to the Chillingworth home the night of the slaying by a Negro moonshiner, Bobby Lincoln, now in a federal prison for liquor law violations.

Girl's Slayer, 19, Gets Life Imprisonment

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Leroy Pinkowski, 19, confessed slayer of 14-year-old Diane Zibolsky, was sentenced Monday to life imprisonment in Waupun State prison.

The youth was found guilty of first degree murder Sunday by a jury of nine men and three women who deliberated his fate for 12 hours Saturday and four hours Sunday before reaching a verdict.

Soviets Parade Rockets Before World Red Chiefs

MOSCOW (AP) — Rocket detachments and other examples of Soviet might paraded before leaders of world communism under an icy drizzle in Red Square Monday. Premier Khrushchev was host at this observance of the Bolshevik Revolution's 43rd anniversary.

Later Khrushchev offered toasts to world peace and to the liberation of colonial peoples, at a government reception attended by about 2,000 persons in the Kremlin's Grand Palace.

The three-day anniversary celebration is leading up to a summit meeting of the Communist leaders Wednesday.

The Red Square military show included about a dozen silver needle rockets, a 10-foot-long type which the Soviets say was used to down Francis Gary Powers' high - flying U2 reconnaissance plane May 1.

The rockets, red-tipped, were carried aboard trucks.

Western experts who saw them conceded such a rocket could reach the 68,000-foot altitude at which Powers said he was flying when an explosion wrecked his plane over the Urals. Powers, now under a 10-year sentence as a spy, has never said flatly whether he believed a rocket was responsible.

Also in the military demonstration were Katusha antipersonnel rockets, four medium-sized rockets mounted on tanks and eight 25-foot rockets carried on trailers. The latter were first displayed publicly at last year's anniversary parade.

Gable Resting Under Sedation

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Clark Gable was resting comfortably under sedation Monday after suffering a coronary thrombosis at the end of a long and strenuous movie-making job.

The heart attack came Sunday at his San Fernando Valley home. On Friday he had finished his last scenes in "The Misfits," for which he had earned three weeks of overtime payments at $48,000 a week. He had planned a long vacation to await the birth of his first child.

Gable had "a reasonably good night," his doctor said Monday. Two nurses attended the actor at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital. His fifth wife, Kay Spreckels Gable, remained in his room through the night.

"He has to lie still all the time," she said. "That bothers him a bit."

A three-week hospital stay with no visitors has been ordered for the 59-year-old star, still on top after a 30-year reign as king of the movie world.

Nixon Sets Precedent In Telethon

Candidate Answers Nation's Questions In 4-Hour Talkfest

DETROIT (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon pounded down the home stretch of the 1960 presidential race Monday, whipping out answers to the nation's questions in a four-hour television talkfest.

The 47-year-old candidate's telethon appearance over a 125-station network was unprecedented in the history of presidential campaigning.

It was nearly the end of a pell-mell, 7,200-mile last-minute swing which began in California and headed to its end there sometime after midnight.

This last-minute drive carried him through Alaska, Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois.

Nixon made a next-to-final effort to round up votes for Tuesday by appearing on television from Chicago later Monday night. The nationwide hookup included an appearance on the screen by President Eisenhower in Washington and Nixon's running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, in Boston.

Wide-Ranging Questions

The questions propounded to the bone-tired candidate during the telethon ranged all over the landscape.

He reiterated his stand against federal aid to help pay teachers salaries, said he didn't believe the minimum wage should be raised above $1.15 and declared that "a matter of major importance is to break the stalemate on the testing of atomic devices."

On the subject of atomic tests, Nixon said the Communists were filibustering on the issue at Geneva and "they may be cheating."

He said he would try to break the deadlock and try to gain some agreement to use the atom for peaceful purposes—"to dig canals, move mountains."

Nixon wore a heavy pink shade of lipstick for his telethon. He smiled only occasionally. The strain was showing. Sometimes he appeared short-tempered.

No Recession, Nixon Says

To a question about the state of the economy, Nixon replied "There isn't going to be a recession." He added that the best way to insure real jobs for the unemployed was an expanding economy.

Nixon arrived in Detroit shortly after 11 a.m. and drove the 16 miles to the Ford Auditorium under clear, crisp skies.

Nixon's big pitch throughout the day was that he was best fitted to keep America out of war and to control the Communist threat to the Western world.

In the course of a 30-minute rally at the Ford Auditorium on the Detroit River, Nixon brought shouts when he asserted that the Republicans were best qualified to safeguard the nation from "nuclear disaster."

A capacity crowd of 3,000 jammed the auditorium and another 4,000 waited outside.

Ike Pleads For Nixon's Election

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower Monday night called for the election of Richard M. Nixon so that the United States can have "the most experienced, the most responsible leadership we can produce."

The Chief Executive asked the country's voters to consider what effect Tuesday's balloting will have on their children and grandchildren—including his own four grandchildren. He asked:

"Will they, years from now, live in a country still strong and free; still prosperous with its economy undamaged by the cancer of inflation; still dynamic in its philosophy of free enterprise, with the government the partner of the people—not the boss?

"Will our nation still be the respected leader of free peoples in a world of peace?"

"No one can answer these questions tonight," the President said, then added:

"I do pray that we, here and now, in this election give to these young Americans the best possible chance of inheriting from us a sound republic.

"I do pray that the man we choose to be your — and my — president for the next four years is endowed with wisdom, common sense experience and character."

The President made his plea on Nixon's behalf in a speech prepared for nationwide television delivery.

Finch Retrial Ends In Hung Jury; No. 3 Set

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Finch murder trial No. 2 ended Monday in bitter disagreement just as did Finch trial No. 1, and there will be a Finch trial No. 3.

Jurors were unable to reach a verdict and were discharged.

But there was a difference Monday. The foreman of the panel of 11 women and one man disclosed the vote was unanimous in favor of convicting Dr. R. Bernard Finch of murdering his socialite wife—but there could be no conviction because jurors could not get together on whether it was first- or second-degree murder.

The vote on the surgeon's shapely onetime mistress and co-defendant, Carole Tregoff, foreman Edwin Fry told newsmen, was 9-3 in favor of conviction.

In open court, the foreman did not specify how the jurors were divided.

On Dr. Finch, Fry said, the vote was 9-3 in favor of a first-degree murder conviction in preference to second degree; 9-3 on charges of conspiracy to commit murder. The 9-3 vote on Miss Tregoff, he said, was for conviction on both counts.

The defendants took the outcome calmly and without comment.

The jury had deliberated nearly 70 hours since getting the case last Oct. 19 after a 17-week trial. It took 59 ballots and 11 of the 12 felt agreement was impossible. The jury in the first trial deliberated 37 hours over eight days, before agreeing it could not agree. Jury No. 1 divided 10-2 in favor of convicting Finch, 8-4 in favor of acquitting Miss Tregoff.

Superior Court Judge Leroy Dawson, who called jurors in last week and told them he thought the bullet-in-the-back slaying of Barbara Jean Finch was willful murder, bitterly criticized the panel after discharging it.

"Obviously," he said, "the case should be retried." He set Jan. 3 for trial No. 3.

36 Reported Killed In Airliner Crash

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI) — An Ecuadorean airliner with 36 persons aboard crashed into a mountain Monday night in bad weather on a flight from Guayaquil to Quito.

First reports said all aboard were killed, including 10 high officials of the Ecuadorean government.

The plane crashed shortly after its pilot reported that bad weather would make the landing in Quito difficult. It struck the mountain and burst into flames.

Girl's Slayer, 19, Gets Life Imprisonment

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Leroy Pinkowski, 19, confessed slayer of 14-year-old Diane Zibolsky, was sentenced Monday to life imprisonment in Waupun State prison.

The youth was found guilty of first degree murder Sunday by a jury of nine men and three women who deliberated his fate for 12 hours Saturday and four hours Sunday before reaching a verdict.

President Will Be Early-Bird Voter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower plans to be among the nation's early - bird voters Tuesday.

The White House said the President intends to fly to Gettysburg, Pa., by helicopter and cast his ballot for the Nixon-Lodge ticket shortly after the polls open at 7 a.m.

As he has since 1956, Eisenhower will vote at the Barlow Township fire house, situated several miles from the President's farm.

Eisenhower's helicopter will leave the White House lawn about 6:20 a.m. EST, flying directly to the fire house. The President will return to Washington immediately after he casts his ballot.

The White House said the President's son, Army Lt. Col. John Eisenhower, probably will accompany his father and vote at the same time. The President's wife will drive to Gettysburg to vote later in the day, probably accompanied by her daughter - in-law, Mrs. Barbara Eisenhower.

Congo Debate Delayed By U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly Monday decided to delay debate on the Congo for 24 hours in order to permit President Joseph Kasavubu to take part.

By a vote of 61-12 with 12 abstentions the assembly thus put off until Tuesday what promised to be a full-scale airing of the complicated problems of the chaotic young African republic.

Kasavubu arrived in New York too late to attend the afternoon meeting of the assembly to take up a resolution by eight Asian-African nations seeking immediate seating of a Congo delegation representing his political foe, the deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The Congo president told reporters at Idlewild Airport that the Congo crisis was one for the Congolese people to settle without any outside pressures.

Teacher Strike Disrupts N. Y. School System

NEW YORK (AP) — The first teachers strike in the city's history Monday disrupted the nation's largest public school system. Caught in the dispute over wages and union benefits were a million pupils, some of whom ran wild for lack of classroom supervision.

Leaders of the striking United Federation of Teachers predicted the walkout would snowball among the system's 40,000 public school teachers. The union, claiming only a minority of the total, estimated 15,000 already were on strike.

However, School Supt. John J. Theobold forecast a quick collapse of the strike. He minimized its impact, admitting only that about 4,600 teachers were out. These he ordered immediately suspended. Mayor Robert F. Wagner backed him up.

The strike's real test was expected to come Wednesday, Tuesday and Friday are legal holidays —Election Day and Veterans Day —with all public and parochial schools in the city closed.

Approximately 400,000 pupils in 830 private and parochial schools were not involved in the strike.

The walkout was confined to the city's 837 public schools. Slightly more than 250 were picketed. Most of them managed to eke out a fairly normal day of classes. But several were forced to close their doors at noon. In others, classes were forgotten and pupils herded into auditoriums and cafeterias for supervision—but no instruction. The union claimed they passed their time watching movies or playing games.

In an attempt to fill gaps in the teaching ranks, the board of education pressed supervisory personnel into classroom assignments.

Dutch Offer U.S. Base

THE HAGUE (UPI)—The Netherlands has offered the United States facilities for a naval base on the Antilles island of Aruba, official sources said Monday.

The base could replace America's Guantanamo bay base in Cuba if necessary, the sources said.

Soviets Parade Rockets Before World Red Chiefs

MOSCOW (AP) — Rocket detachments and other examples of Soviet might paraded before leaders of world communism under an icy drizzle in Red Square Monday. Premier Khrushchev was host at this observance of the Bolshevik Revolution's 43rd anniversary.

Later Khrushchev offered toasts to world peace and to the liberation of colonial peoples, at a government reception attended by about 2,000 persons in the Kremlin's Grand Palace.

The three-day anniversary celebration is leading up to a summit meeting of the Communist leaders Wednesday.

The Red Square military show included about a dozen silver needle rockets, a 10-foot-long type which the Soviets say was used to down Francis Gary Powers' high - flying U2 reconnaissance plane May 1.

The rockets, red-tipped, were carried aboard trucks.

Western experts who saw them conceded such a rocket could reach the 68,000-foot altitude at which Powers said he was flying when an explosion wrecked his plane over the Urals. Powers, now under a 10-year sentence as a spy, has never said flatly whether he believed a rocket was responsible.

Also in the military demonstration were Katusha antipersonnel rockets, four medium-sized rockets mounted on tanks and eight 25-foot rockets carried on trailers. The latter were first displayed publicly at last year's anniversary parade.

Pollsters Leaning Toward Kennedy; Prestige Top Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon fought to the bitter end Monday never letting up a minute, in their furious battle for the presidency.

Both Republican Nixon and Democrat Kennedy acted as though they were running scared —the politicians' term for taking nothing at all for granted.

If Kennedy had the edge this election eve, as most pollsters and professional guessers figured, he didn't show it. He was campaigning hard in, of all places, his native New England.

And Nixon, the first candidate ever to carry his campaign into every state, outdid himself in vigorous effort.

A four-hour stint of answering questions on television from Detroit was just one item for the vice president. There was also a late-hour appearance on TV with President Eisenhower, one more appeal to keep the White House in Republican hands.

Kennedy, already with a major address arranged at historic Faneuil Hall in Boston, took another half-hour of air time to reply to Nixon's Detroit telethon. Tuesday this grueling campaign, so tough that newsmen had to cover it by platoons, will be history—history with a last chapter written by an estimated 67 million voters, a record.

Battle Of Young Men

They will choose between two of the youngest men ever to run for president; Nixon is 47 and Kennedy is 43.

If the voters choose on the basis of personalities—and admittedly the campaign issues have never stirred a tremendous amount of interest—there will be differences aplenty to consider.

In addition to their comparative youth and the fact that both were naval officers in World War II, the two men are as far apart as their home towns—Boston, Mass., for Kennedy and Whittier, Calif., for Nixon.

Kennedy is the son of a multi-millionaire, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy. He is a Harvard graduate who won a Pulitzer Prize for his book, "Profiles in Courage."

Mrs. Kennedy, the former Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, was an inquiring photographer for a Washington newspaper when Kennedy met her. They have a young daughter, and are expecting another child.

Nixon Son Of Grocer

Nixon is the son of a grocer, and attended Whittier College in California before getting a law degree at Duke University in North Carolina. As a congressman he won fame in the investigation of Alger Hiss, who was later convicted for passing government secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

Mrs. Nixon, christened Thelma Ryan but always called Pat, was teaching school when they met. They have two daughters, Tricia, 14, and Julie, 12.

In addition to electing a president and vice president Tuesday, the voters will elect 34 senators, 437 members of the House of Representatives and 27 governors.

The Senate is now split 66-34 in favor of the Democrats and the House has a Democratic edge of 283-154. No one expects the Republicans to win control of the Senate and few accord them any chance to do more than reduce

Gable Resting Under Sedation

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Clark Gable was resting comfortably under sedation Monday after suffering a coronary thrombosis at the end of a long and strenuous movie-making job.

The heart attack came Sunday at his San Fernando Valley home. On Friday he had finished his last scenes in "The Misfits," for which he had earned three weeks of overtime payments at $48,000 a week. He had planned a long vacation to await the birth of his first child.

Gable had "a reasonably good night," his doctor said Monday. Two nurses attended the actor at Hollywood Presbyterian Hospital. His fifth wife, Kay Spreckels Gable, remained in his room through the night.

"He has to lie still all the time," she said. "That bothers him a bit."

A three-week hospital stay with no visitors has been ordered for the 59-year-old star, still on top after a 30-year reign as king of the movie world.

"Dial Nixon" Calls Plague Virginian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon started a question-answering session on TV at 2 p.m. Monday in Detroit. A short time later, "all hell broke loose" in an awning shop in suburban Alexandria, Va.

Here's why, as explained by John Pope, proprietor of the firm:

The American Broadcasting Co., which carried the Nixon program, periodically flashed a reminder on the television screen for listeners to telephone their questions—collect—to Nixon in Detroit.

When dialed direct, the number given also reaches the Customs Shade & Awning Shop, a firm employing 12 persons.

Pope said his employes were flooded with at least 200 calls.

Pope said the long-distance calls came from, among other places, Orlando, Fla., Norfolk, Va., Boston, Mass., Atlanta, Ga., New York City, Washington, D. C., and nearby Maryland and Virginia.

"And the worst part of it is," Pope said, "we don't know if they are of the collect variety."

"We tell the callers they have the wrong number. This doesn't satisfy some of them and they just redial."

Pope said he got tired of answering the telephone and he also put in a telephone call—to the Republican National Ctmmittee.

"Someone at the committee said, 'That's impossible, you couldn't be getting Mr. Nixon's calls.'

"Well, I told them if they don't believe it they could send Mr. Nixon over to help answer the telephones. I finally was transferred to somebody who said they'd look into it—but the calls poured in anyhow."

In sheer exasperation, Pope said, at different times he identified himself as the vice president and told the telephone caller he was "ready for the question."

"They are happy as hell at my answers and I wind up by telling them don't forget to get to the polls early tomorrow."

A telephone company spokesman said many people apparently thought Nixon was speaking from Washington and called him here instead of Detroit. The awning shop's telephone number is dialed identically with the number for the Nixon calls in Detroit.

Laborer Charged In Woman's Slaying

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Montgomery County police Monday filed murder charges against a 42-year-old laborer in the death of a woman whose bullet-riddled body was found near Brighton, Md. Saturday.

The charge was lodged against Reafus Fennell of Washington, who was held in the county jail without bond pending a preliminary hearing Nov. 21 in Silver Spring Peoples Court.

The body of Mrs. Agnes Louise Horne, 35, also of Washington, was found in a thickly wooded area of Montgomery County about a half mile from the Brighton Dam. She had been shot four times.

Nixon favored a national-state aid program to help those who couldn't care for themselves; Kennedy favored tying medical care to the Social Security system.

Potomac River Compact's Fate Up To Voters

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland voters will decide Tuesday whether this state will join Virginia in setting up a joint agency to administer and develop the Potomac River's fishing resources.

If the new Potomac River Compact is ratified, it will be forwarded to Congress where approval is expected to be a formality.

If it is rejected, Maryland and Virginia will return to the Supreme Court to complete a legal battle which Virginia launched after the Maryland Legislature in 1957 revoked a 175-year-old compact giving the Old Dominion equal fishing rights in the river.

Retired Justice Stanley Reed, appointed by the high court as a special master to take evidence in the case, gave the two states an extension until Maryland voters make their decision. The case of Maryland's abrogation of the 1785 compact has never been argued before Reed.

The compact, drawn up by a bi-state study commission in 1958 in an attempt to reach a settlement out of court, has already been ratified by Virginia, through its General Assembly.

It was also approved overwhelmingly by the Maryland Legislature but was petitioned onto the ballot by Southern Maryland watermen who oppose the bi-state agency and other provisions of the pact and feel that the state should have gone through with the Supreme Court test.

The watermen and their spokesmen argue that the most Maryland can lose is to have the river returned to its status under the old compact and that it might even win the case.

One Child Killed, 22 Injured When Train Strikes Bus

NEW YORK (AP)—A commuter train crashed into a loaded school bus at a Staten Island railroad crossing Monday killing one child and injuring 22 others, two critically.

Police said the bus loaded with 51 youngsters, ranging in age from 5 to 8, at first stopped at the crossing and then moved across the tracks. A Staten Island Rapid Transit train, with about 10 passengers aboard, smashed into the bus, spinning it around and knocking it on its side.

"I was blinded by the sun," said Edward Hallowell, 40, the bus driver.

Sobbing children, many of them bloody from injuries, crawled from the overturned bus assisted by police and other persons who rushed to the scene. Terrified parents, alarmed by radio reports, converged on the wreckage.

Navy Fires Polaris Missile 1,150 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The Navy successfully fired a Polaris missile about 1,150 statute miles over the Atlantic Ocean Monday in preparation for the start of an advanced test series later this month.

The bottle-shaped rocket, built for firing from submerged nuclear submarines, was fired from a stable pad on the cape.

Bandits Crash Party, Escape With $3,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several gunmen crashed a party in a Washington residence early Monday, forced the men to drop their trousers and escaped with at least $3,000 in cash.

Lt. Murray Kutner of the police robbery squad said the men, some wearing masks, bulled their way into the home as the host was ushering a guest out of the front door.

An unknown amount of jewelry also was reported stolen.

Thornton Nightengale, 49, who lives in the home, told police a man stuck a gun in his back and forced him into a front room while accomplices went to the basement where about 35 people were gathered.

One of the intruders was carrying a sawed off shotgun.

Officers said they were told the men were lined up against one wall in the basement and the women along another. The male guests then were forced to drop their trousers and everyone was searched for money and jewelry.

The gunmen then piled their loot into a suit coat taken from a woman guest and fled.

2 Men Suffocate In Rail Tank Car

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Two men suffocated Monday when they attempted to rescue a fellow worker overcome by nitrogen gas in a railroad tank car at the H. J. Heinz Co. food processing plant.

Firemen used ropes to lift the three men from the glass-lined car which had transported tomato paste from California. Pronounced dead at Allegheny General Hospital were Peter Smoley, 25, and Stephen Jagusczak. They had attempted to rescue Joseph Buttice, 33, who is in critical condition at Divine Providence Hospital.

F. Y. Tiernan, general manager of the plant on the North Side section of the city, said nitrogen gas is used to preserve the paste.

"The car had been emptied by pumps and was to be scraped and cleaned," Tiernan said.

"A manhole had been opened so the nitrogen could dissipate." However, some of the gas formed a pocket, producing the fumes.

Annapolis mother reports telephone saves $22.54 and 32 hours in two weeks...prevents destruction of neighbor's wooded land

We recently asked Mrs. John Whitmore to keep a two-week "diary" of her family's telephone calls—estimating the amount of time, money and traveling, if any, each call saved.
Mrs. Whitmore has a teen-age daughter, Betsy; is active in her community PTA and serves as president of a 160-member women's club, the Severn Town Club, in Annapolis.
She found that the telephone saved 32 valuable hours and $22.54 in expense, including the cost and trouble of 269 miles they did not have to travel.
But Mrs. Whitmore says, "While the time and money our telephone saves are important, the job it does is often more important. For instance, one call was to a neighbor across the lake—to tell him we could see what looked like a fire in his woods. It was a fire—and required three companies to bring it under control. How can one estimate savings on that item?"
If you should ever keep a telephone diary, we think you, too, would find that your telephone pays for itself many times over—not only in money it saves but in pleasure and usefulness.

The compact, drawn up by a bi-state study commission in 1958 in an attempt to reach a settlement out of court, has already been ratified by Virginia, through its General Assembly.

It was also approved overwhelmingly by the Maryland Legislature but was petitioned onto the ballot by Southern Maryland watermen who oppose the bi-state agency and other provisions of the pact and feel that the state should have gone through with the Supreme Court test.

The watermen and their spokesmen argue that the most Maryland can lose is to have the river returned to its status under the old compact and that it might even win the case.

One Child Killed, 22 Injured When Train Strikes Bus

NEW YORK (AP)—A commuter train crashed into a loaded school bus at a Staten Island railroad crossing Monday killing one child and injuring 22 others, two critically.

Police said the bus loaded with 51 youngsters, ranging in age from 5 to 8, at first stopped at the crossing and then moved across the tracks. A Staten Island Rapid Transit train, with about 10 passengers aboard, smashed into the bus, spinning it around and knocking it on its side.

"I was blinded by the sun," said Edward Hallowell, 40, the bus driver.

Sobbing children, many of them bloody from injuries, crawled from the overturned bus assisted by police and other persons who rushed to the scene. Terrified parents, alarmed by radio reports, converged on the wreckage.

Navy Fires Polaris Missile 1,150 Miles

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—The Navy successfully fired a Polaris missile about 1,150 statute miles over the Atlantic Ocean Monday in preparation for the start of an advanced test series later this month.

The bottle-shaped rocket, built for firing from submerged nuclear submarines, was fired from a stable pad on the cape.

Bandits Crash Party, Escape With $3,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several gunmen crashed a party in a Washington residence early Monday, forced the men to drop their trousers and escaped with at least $3,000 in cash.

Lt. Murray Kutner of the police robbery squad said the men, some wearing masks, bulled their way into the home as the host was ushering a guest out of the front door.

An unknown amount of jewelry also was reported stolen.

Thornton Nightengale, 49, who lives in the home, told police a man stuck a gun in his back and forced him into a front room while accomplices went to the basement where about 35 people were gathered.

One of the intruders was carrying a sawed off shotgun.

Officers said they were told the men were lined up against one wall in the basement and the women along another. The male guests then were forced to drop their trousers and everyone was searched for money and jewelry.

The gunmen then piled their loot into a suit coat taken from a woman guest and fled.

The excavation of Pompeii, which disappeared under the ashes of Mount Vesuvius in A. D. 79, has continued longer than that of any other city in the world. Archeological work there has been in progress for more than 200 years.

2 Men Suffocate In Rail Tank Car

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Two men suffocated Monday when they attempted to rescue a fellow worker overcome by nitrogen gas in a railroad tank car at the H. J. Heinz Co. food processing plant.

Firemen used ropes to lift the three men from the glass-lined car which had transported tomato paste from California. Pronounced dead at Allegheny General Hospital were Peter Smoley, 25, and Stephen Jagusczak. They had attempted to rescue Joseph Buttice, 33, who is in critical condition at Divine Providence Hospital.

F. Y. Tiernan, general manager of the plant on the North Side section of the city, said nitrogen gas is used to preserve the paste.

"The car had been emptied by pumps and was to be scraped and cleaned," Tiernan said.

"A manhole had been opened so the nitrogen could dissipate." However, some of the gas formed a pocket, producing the fumes.

Annapolis mother reports telephone saves $22.54 and 32 hours in two weeks...prevents destruction of neighbor's wooded land

Mrs. Whitmore talks to her husband who called to ask if she needs anything from town.

We recently asked Mrs. John Whitmore to keep a two-week "diary" of her family's telephone calls—estimating the amount of time, money and traveling, if any, each call saved.

Mrs. Whitmore has a teen-age daughter, Betsy; is active in her community PTA and serves as president of a 160-member women's club, the Severn Town Club, in Annapolis.

She found that the telephone saved 32 valuable hours and $22.54 in expense, including the cost and trouble of 269 miles they did not have to travel.

But Mrs. Whitmore says, "While the time and money our telephone saves are important, the job it does is often more important. For instance, one call was to a neighbor across the lake—to tell him we could see what looked like a fire in his woods. It was a fire—and required three companies to bring it under control. How can one estimate savings on that item?"

If you should ever keep a telephone diary, we think you, too, would find that your telephone pays for itself many times over—not only in money it saves but in pleasure and usefulness.

High Court To Review Case Of Atheist Denied Maryland Notary Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has agreed to review the case of an avowed atheist who has been denied a notary public's commission in Maryland because he refused to profess his belief in God.

Roy R. Torcaso, a 48-year-old office worker, contended to the Supreme Court that a State cannot constitutionally require its office holders to profess any religious belief or disbelief.

Torcaso appealed a June 30 decision of the Maryland Court of Appeals in which the high tribunal held "that under our constitution disbelief in a supreme being, and the denial of any moral accountability for conduct, not only renders a person incompetent to hold public office, but to give testimony, or serve as a juror."

The disputed section of the Maryland Code, Article 37 of the Declaration of Rights of the State Constitution, provides:

"That no religious test ought ever be required as a qualification for any office or profit or trust in this state, other than a declaration of belief in the existence of God; nor shall the legislature prescribe any other oath of office than the oath prescribed by this constitution."

In his appeal to the Supreme Court, Torcaso made these contentions:

1. Eligibility for a State office conditioned upon a belief in the existence of God constitutes a law respecting an establishment of religion in violation of the U. S. Constitution's First Amendment.

2. Disqualification of an otherwise qualified applicant for State office solely for refusal to declare a belief in the existence of God deprives him of liberty without due process of law and denies him equal protection of the laws in violation of the U. S. Constitution's 14th amendment.

The Maryland Court of Appeals stated, "There appears to be a long and unbroken administrative construction, whereby a declaration of belief in God, has been required as a qualification for office in Maryland," in ruling against Torcaso. Similar laws exist in many other states.

Attorneys for Torcaso pointed out at the Annapolis hearing that not even the presidency carries a requirement for such an oath.

"The petitioner is not compelled to believe or disbelieve, under threat of punishment or other compulsion," the Maryland court said. "True, unless he makes the declaration of belief he cannot hold public office in Maryland, but he is not compelled to hold office.

"It would appear to be somewhat paradoxical if a notary public, who is given the power to administer oaths and certify thereto, might qualify for the office even if he disavowed belief in God and in the sanctity of the very oaths he administers."

The Court of Appeals has said it was "difficult to believe that the Supreme Court will hold that a declaration of belief in the existence of God . . . is discriminatory and invalid."

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — The Kenya government Monday moved against possible formation of an African "volunteer force" hinted by African nationalist leader Tom Mboya.

Baltimore Poly Gives Kennedy Slight Edge

BALTIMORE (AP) — The presidential poll at Polytechnic Institute, which hasn't been wrong in almost 40 years, gives Sen. John F. Kennedy the edge in Tuesday's election.

Nikirk Suspended From Practicing Law In State

FREDERICK (AP) — Former state's attorney Edwin F. Nikirk was suspended Monday from practicing law in the State of Maryland for two years.

The suspension handed down in Frederick County Circuit Court was made retroactive to Nov. 20, 1959, the date on which he was sentenced for income tax evasion.

Judges Thomas M. Anderson, Kathryn J. Lawlor and James H. Pugh ruled Monday that Nikirk was guilty of conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice and disciplinary action should be taken.

The Frederick County Bar Association had asked that the 43-year-old Nikirk be disbarred. The judges heard three hours of testimony on the matter in June.

Nikirk was sentenced to one year in federal prison and fined $7,500 in U.S. District Court in Baltimore, after he pleaded no contest to a three-count charge that he falsely stated his income for the years 1952-54.

Nikirk had been indicted one day after he was sworn in for the third time as Frederick County state's attorney Jan. 5, 1959.

He was released April 29 this year from the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., after serving five months of the one-year term. The prison said he was released early because of "exceptional good performance and behavior."

Virginia Keller Elected Officer In State Group

The Medical Assistants of Allegany-Garrett County received a double recognition at the organizational meeting of a state group, held Saturday in Baltimore. Dr. Charles O'Donnell, chairman of the Medical and Chirurgical Council pointed out that the Allegany-Garrett group had the necessary credentials for organizing the state group. He explained that before a state organization could be formed, it was necessary to have two chapters in the state. The local group was formed last fall and Baltimore city is forming a chapter. The national group was organized in 1956.

Mrs. Virginia Keller, president of the local group, was elected secretary of the state group. Other officers are Mrs. Dorothy Hartell, Baltimore, president; Mrs. Desma Usher, Baltimore, vice president; and Mrs. Margaret Kraze, Baltimore, treasurer.

It was decided that the state group will meet semi-annually. April and October were selected for the meetings. Dr. Russell Fisher, state medical examiner, who sponsored the meeting, in the Medi-Chi building, stressed how the organization helps both the medical profession and public service. Miss Mary Melligon accompanied Mrs. Keller as representatives of the local group.

All nurses and medical secretaries are invited by Mrs. Keller to join the local group, which will meet November 30 at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. At that time Mrs. Keller will report on the state organization meeting and a film on correct telephone manners and conversation will be shown by the Bell Telephone Company.

Virginia Keller Elected Officer In State Group

The Medical Assistants of Allegany-Garrett County received a double recognition at the organizational meeting of a state group, held Saturday in Baltimore. Dr. Charles O'Donnell, chairman of the Medical and Chirurgical Council pointed out that the Allegany-Garrett group had the necessary credentials for organizing the state group. He explained that before a state organization could be formed, it was necessary to have two chapters in the state. The local group was formed last fall and Baltimore city is forming a chapter. The national group was organized in 1956.

Mrs. Virginia Keller, president of the local group, was elected secretary of the state group. Other officers are Mrs. Dorothy Hartell, Baltimore, president; Mrs. Desma Usher, Baltimore, vice president; and Mrs. Margaret Kraze, Baltimore, treasurer.

It was decided that the state group will meet semi-annually, April and October were selected for the meetings. Dr. Russell Fisher, state medical examiner, who sponsored the meeting, in the Medi-Chi building, stressed how the organization helps both the medical profession and public service. Miss Mary Melligon accompanied Mrs. Keller as representatives of the local group.

All nurses and medical secretaries are invited by Mrs. Keller to join the local group, which will meet November 30 at the Fort Cumberland Hotel. At that time Mrs. Keller will report on the state organization meeting and a film on correct telephone manners and conversation will be shown by the Bell Telephone Company.

Two More Assessors Bid For Vacant County Post

Two more persons have applied for consideration for the position of supervisor of Allegany County assessments.

They are William H. Lemmert, assistant supervisor of assessments for several years, and David E. Kirk, an assessor in the department.

The position as supervisor of assessments became vacant last week with the death of Somerville Nicholson, who held the post 32 years.

Last week W. Edward Eichner, an assessor for many years, also applied for the post.

The names of five applicants will be submitted to the State Department of Assessments and Taxation and one will be selected as Nicholson's successor.

Commissioner William A. Wilson suggested that all five assessors in the county department be listed as possible successors.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that as far as he was concerned the successor to Nicholson would be a Democrat. It is one of the few political 'plums' which is available for the Democratically controlled board, Rowan said.

Local Lawyer Protests Cost Of Paving Job

A property owner appeared at yesterday's Council session to protest the cost of improving Brown Avenue, explaining that he felt the 50-50 cost sharing was inequitable.

The spokesman was Albert A. Doub, who informed council he was speaking for other property owners also. A report of the cost of the improvement was read at the meeting, with the property owner's share listed as $4.60 a foot.

Total cost of the project, running 1,040 feet from Gephart Drive to the new armory was placed at $26,522.64. This included paving, curbing and sewering work, which by ordinance must be shared equally by the city and property owner.

Doub, in appealing for a lower share for the property owner, said the street was "a country path until a year ago, and led only to a water tower."

The improvement was not done for the benefit of property owners along the street, he charged, pointing out that there is but one house on the street. Paving usually benefits the city as a whole, he continued, but in the Brown Avenue case this is not true.

Following a brief conference, Commissioner G. Ray Light moved adoption of the order. Council voted unanimously in passing the order.

In other action, council announced it would participate in a conference December 3 at the University of Maryland, the event being sponsored by the State Department of Planning and Planning Commission.

In a letter to the city group, the department said the conference would be of interest to all governmental officials since it would be devoted to pointing out the goals of efficient planning, and the objectives that must be considered by bodies that are considering master plans.

The city tax collector was granted two tax insolvencies this morning, council approving one of $1.73 on a Valley Street resurfacing lien against Bertha V. Ball, and one for $3.67 on Bedford Street resurfacing against Isaac W. McDonald. The insolvencies resulted from inaccuracies in estimating frontages of the properties.

Report Made On Vandalism

The Mayor and Council was told yesterday by Charles F. Heller, supervisor of maintenance at the Municipal Airport, that there was a great deal of vandalism there last month.

Heller said the damage included the destruction of globes and shades on the utility poles along the road to the airport, and also pointed out that three runway lights had been broken.

The runway lights are essential in preventing "over run" by landing aircraft, Heller pointed out, adding that there was the possibility of lives being lost until the condition was rectified.

He asked that council consider posting a reward for the apprehension of vandals.

Red "Test" Expected

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The China Daily News, organ of President Chiang Kai-Shek's ruling Kuomingtang party, suggested Sunday the Chinese Communists may deliver big attacks against the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu after the U.S. election Tuesday. The newspaper said the purpose would be to subject the policy of the president-elect on the Formosa Strait area to a test.

CD Head Urges Vote On Question

The director of Civil Defense of Allegany County yesterday appealed for voters of Western Maryland to vote for Question 10 on the ballot today.

William G. Barger said the amendment to the constitution would provide for emergency succession in the office of the governor of Maryland.

As proposed in the amendment, the governor would be automatically succeeded, if he were deceased or unable to serve, by the president of the State Senate, speaker of the House of Delegates, the state comptroller and the attorney general, in that succession.

Barger pointed out that the measure is non-political and non-controversial, having passed the General Assembly unanimously and is supported by the Maryland Bar Association, the Women's Civil League, Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Support is also given by the veterans organizations of the state, The Eagles, Moose, and the American Association of University Women and 38 other national organizations in the state.

Barger said continuity of government in the case of an emergency is essential at all levels of government to permit uninterrupted leadership and authority in executive legislative and judicial positions.

It will also prevent unlawful assumption of authority, improve the state governor's ability to serve its citizens, re-establish normal government functions and service in the event of disaster, and will avoid the need of martial law, he added.

County Sets Exemption Tax Date For Elderly

Persons over 65 in Allegany County who own property and are eligible for the tax exemption granted those with annual incomes from all sources of less than $1,200 have until December 10 to file application to obtain this exemption.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners discussed the matter yesterday and stated that those who received the tax exemption last year had been sent notices that they must make another application for the coming year. Those who failed to file again last year did not receive the exemption.

The first year the program was in effect the county noted $1,500,000 of home property assessment was exempted under the program. The amount dropped to $600,000 total assessment last year.

Changes in the program under which the income of others residing in the home property were taken into consideration caused this decrease in the assessable basis which was exempted from taxes. The law was amended by the General Assembly in 1959 to plug loopholes.

Only those property owners over 65 years of age are eligible and they must also meet the other requirements. The exemption is granted only for those homes in which the person resides.

Application blanks can be obtained from the county commissioners' office at the Court House. The Allegany County Welfare Board conducts an investigation of finances of those making application. The board acts on the results of the survey by the Welfare Board workers.

Dear John:
I read in a Washington newspaper of the statement made by Senator Beall of Maryland, trying to place responsibility upon you for the failure of the House to pass the C & O Canal Park bill. The statement made by Senator Beall is entirely without justification. There is no other reasoning that I can attach to it than the fact that Senator Beall is engaging in unjustifiable politics. The fact is that you did everything you possibly could to get the bill through the House of Representatives. For several days prior to the adjournment, the House was operating under "unanimous consent" agreements. So far as the Democratic leadership on the Democratic side of the House, you had obtained clearance of both Speaker Rayburn and myself, to try and bring the bill up and get it through by "unanimous consent". Senator Beall knew the situation, or as a legislator he should have known it. The opposition to the bill coming up was not from Democratic leadership on the Democratic side. You did everything you possibly could to get the bill through. In the next Congress I will be only too glad to cooperate with you in every way possible in getting this bill through.

Two More Assessors Bid For Vacant County Post

Two more persons have applied for consideration for the position of supervisor of Allegany County assessments.

They are William H. Lemmert, assistant supervisor of assessments for several years, and David E. Kirk, an assessor in the department.

The position as supervisor of assessments became vacant last week with the death of Somerville Nicholson, who held the post 32 years.

Last week W. Edward Eichner, an assessor for many years, also applied for the post.

The names of five applicants will be submitted to the State Department of Assessments and Taxation and one will be selected as Nicholson's successor.

Commissioner William A. Wilson suggested that all five assessors in the county department be listed as possible successors.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that as far as he was concerned the successor to Nicholson would be a Democrat. It is one of the few political 'plums' which is available for the Democratically controlled board, Rowan said.

Local Lawyer Protests Cost Of Paving Job

A property owner appeared at yesterday's Council session to protest the cost of improving Brown Avenue, explaining that he felt the 50-50 cost sharing was inequitable.

The spokesman was Albert A. Doub, who informed council he was speaking for other property owners also. A report of the cost of the improvement was read at the meeting, with the property owner's share listed as $4.60 a foot.

Total cost of the project, running 1,040 feet from Gephart Drive to the new armory was placed at $26,522.64. This included paving, curbing and sewering work, which by ordinance must be shared equally by the city and property owner.

Doub, in appealing for a lower share for the property owner, said the street was "a country path until a year ago, and led only to a water tower."

The improvement was not done for the benefit of property owners along the street, he charged, pointing out that there is but one house on the street. Paving usually benefits the city as a whole, he continued, but in the Brown Avenue case this is not true.

Following a brief conference, Commissioner G. Ray Light moved adoption of the order. Council voted unanimously in passing the order.

In other action, council announced it would participate in a conference December 3 at the University of Maryland, the event being sponsored by the State Department of Planning and Planning Commission.

In a letter to the city group, the department said the conference would be of interest to all governmental officials since it would be devoted to pointing out the goals of efficient planning, and the objectives that must be considered by bodies that are considering master plans.

The city tax collector was granted two tax insolvencies this morning, council approving one of $1.73 on a Valley Street resurfacing lien against Bertha V. Ball, and one for $3.67 on Bedford Street resurfacing against Isaac W. McDonald. The insolvencies resulted from inaccuracies in estimating frontages of the properties.

Report Made On Vandalism

The Mayor and Council was told yesterday by Charles F. Heller, supervisor of maintenance at the Municipal Airport, that there was a great deal of vandalism there last month.

Heller said the damage included the destruction of globes and shades on the utility poles along the road to the airport, and also pointed out that three runway lights had been broken.

The runway lights are essential in preventing "over run" by landing aircraft, Heller pointed out, adding that there was the possibility of lives being lost until the condition was rectified.

He asked that council consider posting a reward for the apprehension of vandals.

Red "Test" Expected

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The China Daily News, organ of President Chiang Kai-Shek's ruling Kuomingtang party, suggested Sunday the Chinese Communists may deliver big attacks against the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu after the U.S. election Tuesday. The newspaper said the purpose would be to subject the policy of the president-elect on the Formosa Strait area to a test.

CD Head Urges Vote On Question

The director of Civil Defense of Allegany County yesterday appealed for voters of Western Maryland to vote for Question 10 on the ballot today.

William G. Barger said the amendment to the constitution would provide for emergency succession in the office of the governor of Maryland.

As proposed in the amendment, the governor would be automatically succeeded, if he were deceased or unable to serve, by the president of the State Senate, speaker of the House of Delegates, the state comptroller and the attorney general, in that succession.

Barger pointed out that the measure is non-political and non-controversial, having passed the General Assembly unanimously and is supported by the Maryland Bar Association, the Women's Civil League, Gov. J. Millard Tawes.

Support is also given by the veterans organizations of the state, The Eagles, Moose, and the American Association of University Women and 38 other national organizations in the state.

Barger said continuity of government in the case of an emergency is essential at all levels of government to permit uninterrupted leadership and authority in executive legislative and judicial positions.

It will also prevent unlawful assumption of authority, improve the state governor's ability to serve its citizens, re-establish normal government functions and service in the event of disaster, and will avoid the need of martial law, he added.

County Sets Exemption Tax Date For Elderly

Persons over 65 in Allegany County who own property and are eligible for the tax exemption granted those with annual incomes from all sources of less than $1,200 have until December 10 to file application to obtain this exemption.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners discussed the matter yesterday and stated that those who received the tax exemption last year had been sent notices that they must make another application for the coming year. Those who failed to file again last year did not receive the exemption.

The first year the program was in effect the county noted $1,500,000 of home property assessment was exempted under the program. The amount dropped to $600,000 total assessment last year.

Changes in the program under which the income of others residing in the home property were taken into consideration caused this decrease in the assessable basis which was exempted from taxes. The law was amended by the General Assembly in 1959 to plug loopholes.

Only those property owners over 65 years of age are eligible and they must also meet the other requirements. The exemption is granted only for those homes in which the person resides.

Application blanks can be obtained from the county commissioners' office at the Court House. The Allegany County Welfare Board conducts an investigation of finances of those making application. The board acts on the results of the survey by the Welfare Board workers.

Honorable John R. Foley, M.C.

Dear John:

I read in a Washington newspaper of the statement made by Senator Beall of Maryland, trying to place responsibility upon you for the failure of the House to pass the C & O Canal Park bill. The statement made by Senator Beall is entirely without justification. There is no other reasoning that I can attach to it than the fact that Senator Beall is engaging in unjustifiable politics. The fact is that you did everything you possibly could to get the bill through the House of Representatives. For several days prior to the adjournment, the House was operating under "unanimous consent" agreements. So far as the Democratic leadership on the Democratic side of the House, you had obtained clearance of both Speaker Rayburn and myself, to try and bring the bill up and get it through by "unanimous consent". Senator Beall knew the situation, or as a legislator he should have known it. The opposition to the bill coming up was not from Democratic leadership on the Democratic side. You did everything you possibly could to get the bill through. In the next Congress I will be only too glad to cooperate with you in every way possible in getting this bill through.

You have rendered to the people of your district outstanding legislative service. You represent them not only in an able and courageous manner, but in an honorable and trustworthy manner. You have advanced rapidly as a Member of the National House of Representatives. Your colleagues respect you, and Speaker Rayburn and I have a very high regard and deep respect for you. From my observation of you, you are truly a "People's Congressman." Elected as a Democrat as you were, as a Member of the Congress you have served all the people of your district, Democrats, Republicans and Independents. Democrats In W. Va. Try To Regain Loss

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Democrats will be trying in the West Virginia general election Tuesday to finish the job of winning back what they lost in the Republican upheaval of four years ago.

The big stakes are the state's eight electoral votes for president, the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Jennings Randolph and the office of governor, in which Republican Cecil H. Underwood is barred from succeeding himself.

Underwood, who turned 38 last Saturday, is challenging Randolph for the Senate seat. The antagonists in the contest for governor are Democrat W. W. (Wally) Barron, the present state attorney general, and Republican Harold E. Neely, until recently Underwood's public institutions commissioner.

Voter registration for the election heavily favors the Democrats. They outnumber Republicans 678,000 to 404,000.

However, the Republicans were on the short end of the registration by 259,000 four years ago when President Eisenhower carried the state and Underwood made the grade as the first Republican governor since the Hoover years.

The Republican victory in 1956 also included a U.S. Senate seat, two of the six congressional districts and the state school superintendency (no longer elective). The Democrats took everything else, retaining solid control of the legislature.

The Democrats made a quick comeback in the 1958 off-year election. They regained the lost Senate seat and one of the two GOP-held seats in the house, as well as enlarging their already lopsided control in the legislature.

Democrats In W. Va. Try To Regain Loss

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—Democrats will be trying in the West Virginia general election Tuesday to finish the job of winning back what they lost in the Republican upheaval of four years ago.

The big stakes are the state's eight electoral votes for president, the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Jennings Randolph and the office of governor, in which Republican Cecil H. Underwood is barred from succeeding himself.

Underwood, who turned 38 last Saturday, is challenging Randolph for the Senate seat. The antagonists in the contest for governor are Democrat W. W. (Wally) Barron, the present state attorney general, and Republican Harold E. Neely, until recently Underwood's public institutions commissioner.

Voter registration for the election heavily favors the Democrats. They outnumber Republicans 678,000 to 404,000.

However, the Republicans were on the short end of the registration by 259,000 four years ago when President Eisenhower carried the state and Underwood made the grade as the first Republican governor since the Hoover years.

The Republican victory in 1956 also included a U.S. Senate seat, two of the six congressional districts and the state school superintendency (no longer elective). The Democrats took everything else, retaining solid control of the legislature.

The Democrats made a quick comeback in the 1958 off-year election. They regained the lost Senate seat and one of the two GOP-held seats in the house, as well as enlarging their already lopsided control in the legislature.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(While Louella Parsons is on vacation her column will be written by Dorothy Manners).

HOLLYWOOD—It's difficult to think of anything today but getting to the polls and voting and then waiting on needles and pins for the results. But movie deals go on as usual—and this morning it might be said that Eleanor Parker has been "elected" to play the nice wife in "Away From Home," the Rona Jaffe novel Eddie Grainer is producing at MGM.

Now that she's back on the movie scene making "Madison Avenue" on the 20th lot, Eleanor seems more movie-minded than she has in months. All summer long she dodged offers preferring to spend the lazy months with husband Paul Clemens and the children at their beautiful Lido Isle home.

Much of "Away From Home" will be shot away from home, in Rio during festival time.

Despite his saying that Ava Gardner gave him more headaches than any actress he had ever worked with, Nunnally Johnson wants her for "The Visit." He's making the Lunt-Fontanne play as a movie for 20th and apparently has forgotten, or forgiven, the hassles he had with Ava making "The Angel Wore Red."

Incidentally, Ava has reservations at the St. Regis in New York for later this month. It's obviously a business trip to talk over two other offers, one for "Sweet Bird of Youth" and the other, "Two Weeks in Another Town," both from MGM.

A signal honor coming up for George Stevens in Rome in December. The famed American director has been informed by John L. Brown, cultural attache of the U.S. Foreign Service at the American Embassy in Rome, that most of his pictures will be shown at the Embassy Theatre to inaugurate a new program of cultural events.

Under the title of "Homage to George Stevens," the pictures to be shown include "Alice Adams," "I Remember Mama," "Giant," "Shane," and "The Diary of Anne Frank." George has been invited to attend, but that depends on the current demands on his time while preparing "The Greatest Story Ever Told" at 20th-Century Fox.

One of the fine gentlemen of the hotel world, Frank Bering, affectionately known as "Mr. Hotel" in his loved Chicago, has retired and plans to live with his lovely wife, Joan, in Palm Springs, permanently. For many years Mr. Bering was the owner and chairman of the Sherman-Ambassador Hotels in Chicago and with the late Ernie Byfield, made his establishments a "must" for natives and travelers.

There's hardly a name in show business who does not have his or her favorite story about the Pump Room of the Ambassador East. Leo Carrillo tells about wiring Frank, "Get my stall ready. I'm coming in"—and when he arrived hay was strewn three feet deep through his luxurious suite.

After years of being under contract to 20th before they amicably parted company, Jeffrey Hunter may be back on the lot sooner than expected. He's the star Bob Goldstein has in mind for "Let My Heart be Broken." Richard Lehman's story of Dr. Robert Pierce, which hasn't yet been published.

Dr. Pierce is the evangelist who, ten years ago in Korea, became so distressed over the plight of the GI orphans in the war torn little country, that he founded World Vision. This society helps take care of children of war who are frequently abandoned by both parents at birth.

Council Pays Contractor For Street Work

The Mayor and Council yesterday authorized payment of $35,750 to contracting companies in connection with the paving and improvement of city streets.

The Cumberland Contracting Company was authorized payment for work done on three streets, and Orrie R. Sensabaugh for improvement of Baltimore Street at the Western Maryland crossing.

In connection with the payment authorized to the Sensabaugh firm, Commissioner G. Ray Light explained that the order for payment came up at last Monday's council session when he asked that the order be tabled pending an engineering study.

Yesterday, Commissioner Light said he wanted to clarify his stand, explaining that his objection was not directed at the contracting company, but at the city's Engineering Department.

Following the commissioner's statement, council approved payment of $6,343 to the Sensabaugh form for grading of the approach to the crossing. A "hump" on the rise had resulted in a good many traffic delays when large trailer vehicles would become "hung up" at the crossing.

The Cumberland Contracting Company was ordered paid $12,693 for improvement of Frederick Street between Decatur and the new concrete pavement; $5,072 for improvement of an alley running parallel to Kelly Boulevard from Springfield Boulevard to State Street, and $11,642 for improvement of Pearre Avenue between Bedford and Frederick streets.

Commissioner Light voted "no" on the order concerning the alley improvement. He has previously stated that he thinks funds should be earmarked for street improvement only.

Other payments authorized by council included $10,000 to the Allegany County Library in accordance with an agreement of participating in the expenses of the library for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Payment of $102.62 was approved for the Dashiell Dairy to execute a release for any claim for damages resulting from an accident in September when one of the dairy firm's vehicles collided with the traffic signal light at the Baltimore-Mechanic Street intersection.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(While Louella Parsons is on vacation her column will be written by Dorothy Manners).

HOLLYWOOD—It's difficult to think of anything today but getting to the polls and voting and then waiting on needles and pins for the results. But movie deals go on as usual—and this morning it might be said that Eleanor Parker has been "elected" to play the nice wife in "Away From Home," the Rona Jaffe novel Eddie Grainer is producing at MGM.

Now that she's back on the movie scene making "Madison Avenue" on the 20th lot, Eleanor seems more movie-minded than she has in months. All summer long she dodged offers preferring to spend the lazy months with husband Paul Clemens and the children at their beautiful Lido Isle home.

Much of "Away From Home" will be shot away from home, in Rio during festival time.

Despite his saying that Ava Gardner gave him more headaches than any actress he had ever worked with, Nunnally Johnson wants her for "The Visit." He's making the Lunt-Fontanne play as a movie for 20th and apparently has forgotten, or forgiven, the hassles he had with Ava making "The Angel Wore Red."

Incidentally, Ava has reservations at the St. Regis in New York for later this month. It's obviously a business trip to talk over two other offers, one for "Sweet Bird of Youth" and the other, "Two Weeks in Another Town," both from MGM.

A signal honor coming up for George Stevens in Rome in December. The famed American director has been informed by John L. Brown, cultural attache of the U.S. Foreign Service at the American Embassy in Rome, that most of his pictures will be shown at the Embassy Theatre to inaugurate a new program of cultural events.

Under the title of "Homage to George Stevens," the pictures to be shown include "Alice Adams," "I Remember Mama," "Giant," "Shane," and "The Diary of Anne Frank." George has been invited to attend, but that depends on the current demands on his time while preparing "The Greatest Story Ever Told" at 20th-Century Fox.

One of the fine gentlemen of the hotel world, Frank Bering, affectionately known as "Mr. Hotel" in his loved Chicago, has retired and plans to live with his lovely wife, Joan, in Palm Springs, permanently. For many years Mr. Bering was the owner and chairman of the Sherman-Ambassador Hotels in Chicago and with the late Ernie Byfield, made his establishments a "must" for natives and travelers.

There's hardly a name in show business who does not have his or her favorite story about the Pump Room of the Ambassador East. Leo Carrillo tells about wiring Frank, "Get my stall ready. I'm coming in"—and when he arrived hay was strewn three feet deep through his luxurious suite.

After years of being under contract to 20th before they amicably parted company, Jeffrey Hunter may be back on the lot sooner than expected. He's the star Bob Goldstein has in mind for "Let My Heart be Broken." Richard Lehman's story of Dr. Robert Pierce, which hasn't yet been published.

Dr. Pierce is the evangelist who, ten years ago in Korea, became so distressed over the plight of the GI orphans in the war torn little country, that he founded World Vision. This society helps take care of children of war who are frequently abandoned by both parents at birth.

Cumberland was one of a number of stops Allegheny Airlines was allowed to eliminate from its schedule in an initial CAB decision late last month.

The recommendations for eliminating the service generally was based on lack of traffic volume.

City officials have cited that badly timed schedules and frequent overflights were chiefly responsible for the fact Allegheny Airlines service was not used here.

80 Per Cent

we shall move into the central county area, where the heaviest Republican vote is expected, to start challenging there."

There were the usual predictions of victory.

Forecast Victory

Gov. J. Millard Tawes and State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, in an election press conference forecast a "substantial margin of victory of Kennedy in this State" and the re-election of the seven Democrats who swept the House contests in 1958 — Reps. Thomas F. Johnson in the First District; Daniel B. Brewster, Second; Edward A. Garmatz, Third; George H. Fallon, Fourth; Richard E. Lankford, Fifth; John R. Foley, Sixth, and Samuel N. Friedel, Seventh.

D. Eldred Rinehart, Republican State chairman, said Nixon "has taken a substantial lead in Maryland" and Republicans will win "a good share" of the Congressional seats.

Veteran politicians agreed it has been one of the most unusual campaigns within memory.

One reason for this impression was the fact that, as happens only once every 12 years, there is no contest for governor or a U.S. Senate seat this time. Congressional candidates have been running virtually isolated, independent campaigns, with the Democrats maintaining some sort of cohesion only through the travels of a campaign-bus team including Tawes, Goldstein, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and other party leaders.

Another reason, say some politicians, has been the large number of undecided or uncommunicative voters turned up in polls throughout the State. Much of this ha. been attributed to emotional discussions of Kennedy's Catholicism, but some observers have also suggested this may be a repeat of the sullen, "silent vote" which marked the Truman upset victory in 1948.

Mathias Has Best Chance

Those rated the best chance of upsetting Democratic incumbents in the congressional races were Charles McC. Mathias Jr., a House of Delegates member opposing Foley in the Sixth District, and Edward T. Miller, the former congressman upset by 718 votes in his 1958 contest with Johnson in the First.

The other Repulbican candidates for the House are J. Fife Symington Jr., who lost to Brewster in the Second two years ago; Robert J. Gerstung, Third District; Melvin R. Kenney, Fourth; Carlyle J. Lancaster, Fifth, and David M. Blum, Seventh.

Issues which have attracted unusually great attention include two statewide questions and one in Charles County. Several bar association groups have advocated the defeat of Questions No. 8 and 11, which would add new circuit judgeships to some counties but would also remove a constitutional prohibition against the filling of those offices by legislature members who helped create them.

And Question No. 16, which would ratify the new Maryland-Virginia Potomac River Compact, has stirred up a vigorous contest in which some Democrats find themselves aligned with Republican state party leaders in opposition while others have sided with Gov. Tawes and Tidewater Fisheries Chief H. C. Byrd in favor.

The Charles County fight is strictly local and involves a move to limit to 35 the number of cash pay-off slot machines which may be licensed to one establishment.

In another brisk contest, Baltimore Judges Dulany Foster and J. Gilbert Prendergast, winners of both party primaries for nomination to full terms of the Supreme Bench, are opposed by former Orphans Court Judge Nellie Marie Marshall. Mrs. Marshall got her name on the ballot after the primaries by filing a petition as an independent candidate.

The State's 1,338 polling places will open at 6 a. m. in Baltimore City and 7 a. m. in the 23 counties. They will close at 7 p. m. throughout the State.

A rummage sale will be sponsored by the Twigg-Fike Circle and Williams-Smith Circle of La-Vale Methodist Church, Thursday. It will be held in Teenland of Centre Street Church, beginning at 10 a. m.

Our next President must be at his best when the going gets toughest!

Richard Nixon stood in for a stricken President Eisenhower, and an uneasy nation was reassured.

Richard Nixon skillfully settled a paralyzing steel strike, and both sides admired his fairness.

When a man is faced with a crisis, there's no substitute for experience. No other Vice President in our history has been entrusted with so many responsibilities as Richard Nixon. And during the past seven and one-half years he has shown his courage and leadership in any number of crises. His ability has won him the admiration of people everywhere. Richard Nixon has had first-hand experience in making the right decisions for America and the Free World. When the going gets toughest, when peace may depend on the right decision, there can be no denying that his experience will count.

German Woman To Witness Voting Here

A German woman who has been visiting the United States in recent months will learn more about how Americans vote when she goes to a polling place today with a Mt. Savage couple.

Miss Marguerite Hold, of Eschwege, Germany, last May spent about two weeks on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. James I. Robison and family at Mt. Savage and observed life on a dairy farm.

She is in the United States under the International Farm Youth Exchange program sponsored by the 4-H Clubs. After visiting on the dairy farm at Mt. Savage she traveled other places in America including Iowa.

Miss Hold is on her way back home and before leaving for overseas is keeping a promise to visit again with the Robison family.

Today she will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Robison to the fire hall in Mt. Savage where the couple will cast their ballot.

Cumberland was one of a number of stops Allegheny Airlines was allowed to eliminate from its schedule in an initial CAB decision late last month.

The recommendations for eliminating the service generally was based on lack of traffic volume.

City officials have cited that badly timed schedules and frequent overflights were chiefly responsible for the fact Allegheny Airlines service was not used here.

During the last full year of operation-1958-the airline made only 283 of 511 scheduled departures.

we shall move into the central county area, where the heaviest Republican vote is expected, to start challenging there."

There were the usual predictions of victory.

Forecast Victory

Gov. J. Millard Tawes and State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, in an election press conference forecast a "substantial margin of victory of Kennedy in this State" and the re-election of the seven Democrats who swept the House contests in 1958 — Reps. Thomas F. Johnson in the First District; Daniel B. Brewster, Second; Edward A. Garmatz, Third; George H. Fallon, Fourth; Richard E. Lankford, Fifth; John R. Foley, Sixth, and Samuel N. Friedel, Seventh.

D. Eldred Rinehart, Republican State chairman, said Nixon "has taken a substantial lead in Maryland" and Republicans will win "a good share" of the Congressional seats.

Veteran politicians agreed it has been one of the most unusual campaigns within memory.

One reason for this impression was the fact that, as happens only once every 12 years, there is no contest for governor or a U.S. Senate seat this time. Congressional candidates have been running virtually isolated, independent campaigns, with the Democrats maintaining some sort of cohesion only through the travels of a campaign-bus team including Tawes, Goldstein, Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and other party leaders.

Another reason, say some politicians, has been the large number of undecided or uncommunicative voters turned up in polls throughout the State. Much of this has been attributed to emotional discussions of Kennedy's Catholicism, but some observers have also suggested this may be a repeat of the sullen, "silent vote" which marked the Truman upset victory in 1948.

Mathias Has Best Chance

Those rated the best chance of upsetting Democratic incumbents in the congressional races were Charles McC. Mathias Jr., a House of Delegates member opposing Foley in the Sixth District, and Edward T. Miller, the former congressman upset by 718 votes in his 1958 contest with Johnson in the First.

The other Repulbican candidates for the House are J. Fife Symington Jr., who lost to Brewster in the Second two years ago; Robert J. Gerstung, Third District; Melvin R. Kenney, Fourth; Carlyle J. Lancaster, Fifth, and David M. Blum, Seventh.

Issues which have attracted unusually great attention include two statewide questions and one in Charles County. Several bar association groups have advocated the defeat of Questions No. 8 and 11, which would add new circuit judgeships to some counties but would also remove a constitutional prohibition against the filling of those offices by legislature members who helped create them.

And Question No. 16, which would ratify the new Maryland-Virginia Potomac River Compact, has stirred up a vigorous contest in which some Democrats find themselves aligned with Republican state party leaders in opposition while others have sided with Gov. Tawes and Tidewater Fisheries Chief H. C. Byrd in favor.

The Charles County fight is strictly local and involves a move to limit to 35 the number of cash pay-off slot machines which may be licensed to one establishment.

In another brisk contest, Baltimore Judges Dulany Foster and J. Gilbert Prendergast, winners of both party primaries for nomination to full terms of the Supreme Bench, are opposed by former Orphans Court Judge Nellie Marie Marshall. Mrs. Marshall got her name on the ballot after the primaries by filing a petition as an independent candidate.

The State's 1,338 polling places will open at 6 a. m. in Baltimore City and 7 a. m. in the 23 counties. They will close at 7 p. m. throughout the State.

A rummage sale will be sponsored by the Twigg-Fike Circle and Williams-Smith Circle of La-Vale Methodist Church, Thursday. It will be held in Teenland of Centre Street Church, beginning at 10 a. m.

Our next President must be at his best when the going gets toughest!

Richard Nixon stood in for a stricken President Eisenhower, and an uneasy nation was reassured.

Richard Nixon skillfully settled a paralyzing steel strike, and both sides admired his fairness.

When a man is faced with a crisis, there's no substitute for experience. No other Vice President in our history has been entrusted with so many responsibilities as Richard Nixon. And during the past seven and one-half years he has shown his courage and leadership in any number of crises. His ability has won him the admiration of people everywhere. Richard Nixon has had first-hand experience in making the right decisions for America and the Free World. When the going gets toughest, when peace may depend on the right decision, there can be no denying that his experience will count.

The Final Word: It's Yours Today

The campaign is now over, and the candidates have deserted the stump to sit and wait, like the rest of us, to see how it all turns out. The fiery oratory, the indignant finger pointing, the blistering attack and the angry denial all have gone back into mothballs to await the next campaign. Now it's up to us, the voters.

Everyone who cares about the election will by now have informed himself, at least in broad outline, about the candidates and what they stand for. We would hope that by now everyone who has been reading the papers and watching the so-called "debates" on television will have arrived at some sort of opinion as to who are the best men to lead our nation for the next four years, and to represent our district in Congress for the next two years. Those who have not yet decided as election day dawns will feel a bit like the unfortunate fellow in the cartoon on this page.

This newspaper has taken a position which should be well known to all its readers as voting time arrives. We feel that the Republican candidates for the Presidency, the Vice Presidency and for Representative in Congress are, without exception, better qualified to lead us and to represent us than are their Democratic opponents. This has all been said, but we say it again: Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, combining two absolutely unique backgrounds of experience in foreign and domestic affairs, can lead this nation further toward fulfillment of its traditional ideals. Charles McC. "Mac" Mathias, who at the age of 38 has had wide experience and has gained great respect in his home county of Frederick, will provide the type of effective and responsible representation in Congress that the Sixth District is entitled to.

These are our honest convictions. We hope they are yours, and that you will vote according to them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Right To Abstain

Voting is a right inherent in our system of government in the basic concept of the right of choice. We, the American people, have the inherent political right of selecting those who govern us. We go to the polls to vote for specific officials who are nominated for us by political parties.

But no one can require or force an American to vote. He may not be coerced to go to the polling places. Whatever he does, whether he votes or he does not vote, is a matter of choice. He must not be impressed into voting. No social pressure may be employed to drive him to vote.

The American Heritage Foundation is drumming up interest in voting and has asked clergymen of all faiths to celebrate an American Heritage Sabbath. This is nonsense and is designed to give the American Heritage Foundation undue advertising. An American has as much right to abstain from voting as he has to vote. John C. Cornelius, who is president of this body, says:

"The observance of American Heritage Sabbath and Sunday is particularly fitting because the heart of our heritage is a religious and moral concept — the supreme worth of the individual person created in the image and likeness of God. We believe that each person counts and that he possesses certain inviolable rights that no state can take way."

Election Day, in this country, never occurs on a Saturday or a Sunday. It takes place on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November — this year on November 8. A citizen may, if he chooses, go to the polls. If he chooses, he may go to the golf course or a motion picture theater. He may abstain from voting because he has no one to vote for.

There is a standing Seventh Avenue joke (the garment district in New York):

"Who you gonna vote for?"

"This year, I can't make up my mind."

"So what will you do?"

"I'm only glad I don't have to vote for both of them."

The right to vote, like all constitutional privileges, is to be used with discretion. The citizen should ponder a man's record. For instance, when a person says to me that she will vote for John Kennedy because he is better looking than Richard Nixon, I feel that she ought to be deprived of the right to vote. This is no beauty contest. If it were, why not select some handsome actor for President no matter how dopey he may be? Similarly, when I am told that Kennedy should be defeated because he is a Roman Catholic, I behold the shades of Hitler establishing racial, religious, denominational exclusions, none of which have anything to do with the qualifications for the Presidency.

If one has no better reason for voting than that a candidate has a good voice on television, it needs to be remembered that Abraham Lincoln had a squeaky voice and that Enrico Caruso had the most brilliant voice that any man ever possessed. Would Caruso have made a superior President to Lincoln?

The Republicans, since Herbert Hoover, have only been able to have Dwight D. Eisenhower elected and he had never been affiliated with the Republican Party until he ran for President. They had nominated Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey, and many Republicans abstained from voting for them. Had all those who voted for Republican candidates for Governor and United States Senator also voted for Willkie or Dewey, they might have been elected.

Some believe that Dewey is a brilliant political strategist, but, on the national scene, he has always met with defeat. However, he was one of the maneuverers who eliminated Senator Robert A. Taft and brought Dwight D. Eisenhower to the fore. Whether this is a worthy achievement will be decided in the present election because the real question at issue is the Eisenhower Administration — whether it is worthy of continuation. Senator Kennedy claims that the United States did not move during the Eisenhower Administration. Whereas this is not demonstrable statistically, there is a measure of disappointment at some of the results.

The voter who cannot make up his mind is entitled to say so. Maybe there ought to be a spot on the ballot where a voter can say, "I abstain." I wonder what a percentage of votes it would show.

Kennedy's Cheering Crowds Think Of FDR

By Joseph Alsop

EN ROUTE WITH KENNEDY

In this reporter's fairly long experience, there has been nothing quite comparable to travelling with Sen. Kennedy in the climactic week of the 1960 campaign.

From dawn to late at night, the people are always there, in clumps of hundreds along the highways, in crowds dense-packed behind barriers at the airports, in eager yet patiently waiting knots outside the hotels, and in many tens of thousands - - even hundreds of thousands in such a city as Los Angeles - - for the big urban parade.

But these multitudinous smiling faces, these countless wildly waving, wildly reaching hands, are not so impressive merely because of their incalculable numbers. They are so impressive, rather, because of the feeling which Kennedy has somehow inspired in these people.

Slowly, at the merest snail's pace, the open convertible carries him forward through the clotted masses of humanity. He stands to wave, or leans to touch the offered hands. The people surge about, and over, and behind the car. And almost every face visibly glows with affection and with hope.

It is mysterious how any modern politician, in this less and less personal and intimate era, has managed to arouse and focus on himself so much emotion, and almost all in the brief, lurid hurly-burl of this one campaign. After a day or so of the campaigning routine, one ceases to remember very clearly individual speeches, motorcades, or meetings. All the episodes of each long day begin to blur into one onother. But the unvarying emotion of the people always remains vivid and memorable and distinct.

What is it, then? What is the character, what is the nature, of this feeling Kennedy has known how to stir? One clue to the puzzle is perhaps provided by what the people say after the convertible has passed onward. I made the arduous, even somewhat perilous experiment of following behind Kennedy's car for a while. I found that as the cheers died and the surging ceased, the people would quite often turn to one another and say, "He could be another F. D. R.," or, "He looks like another Roosevelt, let's pray he is," or something of that sort.

This was the nearest to self-analysis that they ever came, at any rate. It was curious, too, how many of those who looked at Kennedy and remembered Franklin Roosevelt could hardly have remembered the Roosevelt of the first years of the New Deal - - the years when cold fear was driven out.

That young father, for instance, with his three children festooned over his shoulders who kept telling his four-year-old son, "Always remember that! You've seen the Senator, you've seen the Senator! Always remember that!" He must have been an eighteen-year-old G. I. when the far-flung armies of the West got the news of what had happened at Warm Springs on April 12, 1945. So many of the others are in the young father's generation, too.

Perhaps indeed the recollection of that day at Warm Springs, and of the whole world in mourning after that day, is another clue to the present enigma. For all that was controversial about Franklin Roosevelt, all that used to stir anger or doubt, has begun to be forgotten. What is now remembered is the great leader, able to inspire America and the world, who was lost on the eve of victory unimaginable. That is the Roosevelt for whom nostalgia is so widely felt today.

The strange tides of our politics caused the American majority to hanker for comfort and reassurance and consolidation in 1952 and 1956 - - and in 1952 and 1956 the folk memory of Franklin Roosevelt gave no aid to Adlai Stevenson. But the tides are running differently now, or so it seems. The call to comfort no longer commands its former audience. The country listens, now, for a call to greatness.

Kennedy's success - - if he has succeeded - - most certainly must be understood in these terms. It is widely said that he has been "promising everything." But his chief social promises - - more aid to education, stronger housing bills, a better minimum wage law, and medical care for the aged - - do not make an unduly formidable list. Latterly, moreover, the Vice President has been making almost much the same promises. The promises, in truth, cannot be the secret of Kennedy's success.

The secret is, I think, twofold. The flat, Boston voice, chopping out the short and vivid sentences, somehow conveys both a strong concern and a deep commitment - - a concern for the less privileged in the American community, and a commitment to the high destiny of America.

Maybe the concern is pretended. Maybe the commitment is assumed. No man on earth, including the candidate himself, can tell what sort of President the candidate will make until the election is over and the candidate passes the portals of the White House. But vast numbers of the American people are now convinced of the reality and power of this concern and commitment. That is why the faces are alight with hope and affection, and why they remember F. D. R., when Kennedy comes campaigning among them.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRESIDENTIAL POLLS — The presidential campaign is drawing to a close. An expected 60 million-plus American voters will give their answer to the great flow of words that has beset their ears since last July.

The outcome is in doubt. The polls are close, hedging on the indications of their own figures by pointing out the necessary inaccuracies of their samplings and the uncertainties of predictions caused by last-minute shifts in voter preferences.

In some quarters, sentiments have been expressed about the similarities of the ruthless characteristics of the two contestants. Their drive and determination have been belittled much as Shakespeare belittled the quality of ambition in Julius Caesar.

This view is not shared by official Washington, which recognizes more clearly than most other sections of the country that drive, determination, ambition — "Steel" if you will — are vitally necessary characteristics of the occupant of the White House.

A President sits at the very apex of the pressures that permeate Washington. He is the decision-maker. He must, in the last analysis, weigh the divergent factors in many complex situations and arrive at a judgment of what is best for the United States. It is no place for a kind man, a friendly man, or one who can be swayed by any elements other than the basic ingredients of a problem.

In private conversation in Washington, there are frequently expressed opinions of admiration for both Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy. Many persons in high government and congressional positions have remarked that the United States is fortunate to have two such men as these running for the Presidency. Either man will be the "best" man for the country.

CAMPAIGN SIGNS — At a Nixon rally, a sign read: "Unemployed Democrats Welcome You to Our Ranks." At a Kennedy rally, a sign read: "Kennedy Cocktail: America on the Rocks."

Exercise Promotes Coronary Circulation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A man is indeed wealthy if he has an abundant coronary circulation to his heart. It is his best protection against death from our No. 1 killer, coronary thrombosis.

The coronary vessels supply the wall of the heart with blood. They are not big vessels, so the more the merrier, because they tend to narrow as the years skip by. It helps to be amply equipped in this way also should one branch become obstructed (thrombosis) because blood can then reach the stricken muscle through other vessels.

The collateral circulation makes a whale of a difference to anyone who survives a heart attack. It means healing in six weeks and a ticker as good as new. In addition, when collateral circulation is ample, there is less likelihood of developing residual chest pain or shortness of breath on exertion.

Is there any way to delay hardening of the arteries? Yes, but it is not always easy if there is a hereditary tendency along this line: we cannot get new grandparents. On the other hand, we can avoid or control high blood pressure, obesity, diabetes, and tension — factors that hasten the development of arteriosclerosis.

Exercise promotes coronary circulation. Walking is best and easiest but there is no harm in riding a bike, rowing, gardening, skating, swimming, fishing, and playing noncompetitive sports.

Keeping the cholesterol level in the blood within normal limits may be helpful. This is done through diet or using products that lower the cholesterol level. These include Triparanol, vegetable steroids, nicotinic acid, and vegetable oils.

WART ON SOLE

M. P. writes: Are plantar warts curable?

REPLY

Yes, via electrocautery, chemicals, or surgery. It is not always easy to distinguish a plantar wart from a callus produced by a fallen arch or other foot defect. In these instances the "wart" will not heal unless the pressure point is eliminated.

SUGAR AND CHOLESTEROL

C. L. writes. Does the blood sugar go up when the cholesterol level rises in a diabetic?

REPLY

The cholesterol level tends to be higher in diabetics than in nondiabetics. But it does not fluctuate with the blood sugar.

SEWING AS A HOBBY

C. D. writes: Is sewing hard on the heart of an elderly woman? I like it but have an enlarged heart and tire easily.

REPLY

No. Sewing is a great hobby for persons with heart disease.

INFLAMMATION

C. H. O. writes: What is aseptic meningitis?

REPLY

Inflammation of the membrane surrounding the brain, caused by the ECHO virus. Bacteria are not found in the spinal fluid.

COATED TONGUE

L. E. writes: Is a dark brown tongue a sign of cancer?

REPLY

Not necessarily—you may have been eating chocolate. On the other hand, a dark brown tongue is associated with various illnesses, including uremia, peritonitis, liver disease and a number of gastrointestinal disorders including cancer. I'm certain if you had any of these disorders, the color of the tongue would be incidental. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on coated tongue.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Harry Oliver, self-proclaimed "desert rat," owns a wise old dog named Whiskers. Oliver noted that Whiskers was growing just a wee bit deaf, so he bought him a hearing aid. Whiskers mistook the aid for a new kind of dog biscuit and swallowed it. "Now," maintains Oliver — with a perfectly straight face, "poor old Whiskers keeps hearing his stomach rumble and thinks it's thunder. He keeps scampering inside the house to get out of the rain."

Oliver is the inventor of the annual Palm Springs lazy dog contest. The laziest dog and its owner both get prizes. The contest was discontinued after a fiasco in 1957. Both the dog and its owner were too lazy to move ten feet and collect their prizes.

"Who says it never rains in our desert?" demands Oliver. "We had a 6-inch rain only last September. By that I mean that the drops were six inches apart."

Americans Don't Appreciate Their Right To Vote And Run For Office

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his second grandson, George L. Arnold Jr.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.
November 7, 1960

Dear Georgie,

I sure had a good time going out with you on Halloween for tricks or treats in Los Angeles. That devil's mask you wore would have scared me to death if I hadn't known that a very nice little boy was behind it.

I am now back in Washington where everyone is preparing for another big night — the elections.

There are two important days around this time of the year — Halloween and election day. For you and your brothers I guess the biggest day is Halloween. But when you get a little older you will come to think of election day as more important, because that's the day we can all go out and vote for the man who's going to lead us as President and for the other men who are going to write our laws in Congress.

In a lot of countries people can't vote for the men who are going to govern them. So we Americans have a very great privilege. We don't always appreciate it, and some Americans don't even use that privilege. In the Philippines, for instance, about 99 per cent of the people vote, while over here only about 60 per cent vote. We don't seem to realize how well off we are.

There's another privilege we have, and also a duty, which not all of us realize — the right and privilege to run for public office.

Running For Congress

You weren't old enough to remember the time your daddy ran for Congress. He knew it would be difficult to win and he hadn't any money to use to pay for his campaign. But he ran anyway, largely because there was no one else who was willing to take on such a thankless job.

Your daddy ran, incidentally, in the same Los Angeles district where your brother Drew's schoolteacher, Norman Hass, is now running. I have never met Mr. Hass, but I understand he is running under the same circumstances — without any money and because nobody else would run.

Many people don't like to run for office because first it takes a lot of money, and because they get called a lot of names by the people running against them. Nevertheless, it's very important that good people run for Congress, and for the municipal council, and for school boards, and for the state legislature. These jobs don't pay very much, but they are very important just the same.

When you get a little older you'll also understand that when you see a man running for office who doesn't have much money to spend on billboards, he's likely to pass laws for the plain ordinary people more than the man who has a lot of money to spend on billboards and handbills and campaign literature; because a man with a lot of money to spend usually gets it from some big interest that wants the candidate to pass laws for it after he's elected. In a sense they take a political mortgage on his future.

Bigotry In Miami

After I left you in California on Halloween night I flew to Florida where I watched an election campaign that illustrates what I'm talking about. This was for the Miami School Board, which decides on the teachers who teach in school and makes sure that enough schools are built, and raises the money to pay for them.

One man running for the Miami School Board is a banker named Jack D. Gordon, who thinks schools are important, so he took time out from all his other work to campaign for this job. Most businessmen wouldn't bother about this kind of thankless public office, which doesn't pay any salary. But Mr. Gordon just wanted to improve the schools.

However, it happens that Mr. Gordon is a Jew. And the Miami schools happen to be in the middle of an argument over whether the Bible should be read in school. The Protestant ministers want the Bible read, but some others don't, so the argument is being settled by the Florida courts.

It cannot be settled by the school board. The board has to obey the court, whichever way the court rules. However, because Mr. Gordon is Jewish, circulars have been sent out by some of the Protestant church groups attacking him, and his opponent has said things about his integrity and loyalty — in the same way Sen. Joe McCarthy once attacked people. Your grandfather Thurman Arnold came to their defense during McCarthy's day, and someday get him to tell you about it.

This business of bringing religion into politics is a very dangerous thing. In Miami Donald Swanson of the Protestant Ministerial Association told Protestant ministers "Thank gosh we have a good Republican Christian we can endorse for the school board." He didn't seem to realize that the Christian religion was really taken from the Jewish prophets and that Christianity has become a wonderful religion because of that Jewish background.

But I have a strong feeling that a lot of Americans are getting away from putting religion into politics and that a great many Protestants in Miami will go out of their way to vote for Mr. Gordon because he is a Jew and for Senator Kennedy because he is a Catholic, so that we can show the world — and what is more important, our inner selves—that we are all free of religious prejudice.

I am sure that in your class at school you never bother about the religion of the boy who sits next to you. That's the way it should be and we adults should learn a lesson from our children.

Please give my love to your mother and I'll see you after this difficult but very important election is over.

With Love,
Your Grandfather

Committees

By Leslie Gould

At the University of Michigan, an otherwise splendid factory of learning, I read with no little dismay that two rival student groups are doing a brisk business in selling duplicated notes taken at the lectures. Notes are taken by two honor students, then correlated and checked by a committee of three, then sold at ten to fifteen cents a lecture or ten dollars a semester to the scholars.

So now we can add learning by committee to journalism by committee, esthetics by committee, and, of course, government by committee. Is there anything left on earth that is not done by committee? Well, we don't yet make love by committee. But it'll come, it'll come. A couple of A students at love-making will lay out the general outline of action, then it would be handed over to the specialist to correlate the details, finalize dates and techniques, polish . . . aah, the hell with it.

This commercialized note-taking has been given the reluctant approval of Roger M. Heyns, dean of the Literary College, who, however, castigated it as "lecturing at its worst." It most emphatically is. Taking notes—as opposed to reading somebody else's printed, store-bought notes—is part of the learning process. As the words enter the ears, travel down the right arm, and are fixed in some reasonable semblance of order on the notebook, small but important crumbs of learning remain indelibly fixed in the crevasses of the brain. That has always been the hope of the educators and the experience of the most rock-skulled students. At least the guy's got to stay awake during the lecture and it takes a degree of awareness (perhaps 20 per cent) to write even incoherent English.

This buying somebody else's notes instead of taking your own is one more distressing sample of the increasing fragmentation—I hate to use these big words, but, damn it, there's no better one—of the human being, the increasing specialization of human activity.

It's invading everything. Cooking, for example. You buy the food in the supermarket, frozen, and above all, prepared. The peas are shelled. The carrots are shredded. (My favorite recipe, girls, opened with the unforgettable words: "Dice one elk.") But preparation of food—from the cutting down of a hindquarter of beef to slicing cucumbers—is an indispensable part of cookery. Both the taste and the appearance of the food (which is part of cookery, too) are largely determined by their preparation.

In fact, it starts ahead of that. When I was a broth of a lad, I remember the chef at the Plankington Hotel in Milwaukee telling me that cooking started in the market, presiding over the cut of lamb, the pinching of peppers, smelling the canteloupes, inspecting the general appearance and well being of the tomatoes. Your good chef does it himself; he doesn't send someone else.

But now, of course, we always send someone else. In my own profession of journalism, alas, the fragmentation, the specialization of effort, has made deep and utterly deplorable progress. "Time" magazine, for example, is the most conspicuous example. One person asks the questions, another person writes it down, somebody else from a different part of the building correlates (lovely word) and assembles this information into Timese, and sometimes still another checks the fact. The result of all this superb pooling of effort, this marvelous teamwork of brain power, is that they get the story far wronger than any individual reporter could manage on his own. It takes a lot of reporters—and very bright ones—to get a fact as wildly out of focus as can a "Time" committee.

I think students should read the books themselves, take the notes themselves, and I'm even old-fashioned enough to think that cheating on examinations is both foolish and—well, wrong—to use a word that has passed into disfavor.

I would like also—on the election eve—to go one step further and say that I think the next President of the United States should take his own notes, do his own cerebration, and reach his own decisions — no matter how taxing or unpleasant the task. That's what we're hiring him to do and no amount of staffwork will replace it.

The Final Word: It's Yours Today

The campaign is now over, and the candidates have deserted the stump to sit and wait, like the rest of us, to see how it all turns out. The fiery oratory, the indignant finger pointing, the blistering attack and the angry denial all have gone back into mothballs to await the next campaign. Now it's up to us, the voters.

Everyone who cares about the election will by now have informed himself, at least in broad outline, about the candidates and what they stand for. We would hope that by now everyone who has been reading the papers and watching the so-called "debates" on television will have arrived at some sort of opinion as to who are the best men to lead our nation for the next four years, and to represent our district in Congress for the next two years. Those who have not yet decided as election day dawns will feel a bit like the unfortunate fellow in the cartoon on this page.

This newspaper has taken a position which should be well known to all its readers as voting time arrives. We feel that the Republican candidates for the Presidency, the Vice Presidency and for Representative in Congress are, without exception, better qualified to lead us and to represent us than are their Democratic opponents. This has all been said, but we say it again: Richard M. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge, combining two absolutely unique backgrounds of experience in foreign and domestic affairs, can lead this nation further toward fulfillment of its traditional ideals. Charles McC. "Mac" Mathias, who at the age of 38 has had wide experience and has gained great respect in his home county of Frederick, will provide the type of effective and responsible representation in Congress that the Sixth District is entitled to.

These are our honest convictions. We hope they are yours, and that you will vote according to them.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Right To Abstain

Voting is a right inherent in our system of government in the basic concept of the right of choice. We, the American people, have the inherent political right of selecting those who govern us. We go to the polls to vote for specific officials who are nominated for us by political parties.

But no one can require or force an American to vote. He may not be coerced to go to the polling places. Whatever he does, whether he votes or he does not vote, is a matter of choice. He must not be impressed into voting. No social pressure may be employed to drive him to vote.

The American Heritage Foundation is drumming up interest in voting and has asked clergymen of all faiths to celebrate an American Heritage Sabbath. This is nonsense and is designed to give the American Heritage Foundation undue advertising. An American has as much right to abstain from voting as he has to vote. John C. Cornelius, who is president of this body, says:

"The observance of American Heritage Sabbath and Sunday is particularly fitting because the heart of our heritage is a religious and moral concept — the supreme worth of the individual person created in the image and likeness of God. We believe that each person counts and that he possesses certain inviolable rights that no state can take way."

Election Day, in this country, never occurs on a Saturday or a Sunday. It takes place on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November — this year on November 8. A citizen may, if he chooses, go to the polls. If he chooses, he may go to the golf course or a motion picture theater. He may abstain from voting because he has no one to vote for.

There is a standing Seventh Avenue joke (the garment district in New York):

"Who you gonna vote for?"

"This year, I can't make up my mind."

"So what will you do?"

"I'm only glad I don't have to vote for both of them."

The right to vote, like all constitutional privileges, is to be used with discretion. The citizen should ponder a man's record. For instance, when a person says to me that she will vote for John Kennedy because he is better looking than Richard Nixon, I feel that she ought to be deprived of the right to vote. This is no beauty contest. If it were, why not select some handsome actor for President no matter how dopey he may be? Similarly, when I am told that Kennedy should be defeated because he is a Roman Catholic, I behold the shades of Hitler establishing racial, religious, denominational exclusions, none of which have anything to do with the qualifications for the Presidency.

If one has no better reason for voting than that a candidate has a good voice on television, it needs to be remembered that Abraham Lincoln had a squeaky voice and that Enrico Caruso had the most brilliant voice that any man ever possessed. Would Caruso have made a superior President to Lincoln?

The Republicans, since Herbert Hoover, have only been able to have Dwight D. Eisenhower elected and he had never been affiliated with the Republican Party until he ran for President. They had nominated Alf Landon, Wendell Willkie and Thomas E. Dewey, and many Republicans abstained from voting for them. Had all those who voted for Republican candidates for Governor and United States Senator also voted for Willkie or Dewey, they might have been elected.

Some believe that Dewey is a brilliant political strategist, but, on the national scene, he has always met with defeat. However, he was one of the maneuverers who eliminated Senator Robert A. Taft and brought Dwight D. Eisenhower to the fore. Whether this is a worthy achievement will be decided in the present election because the real question at issue is the Eisenhower Administration — whether it is worthy of continuation. Senator Kennedy claims that the United States did not move during the Eisenhower Administration. Whereas this is not demonstrable statistically, there is a measure of disappointment at some of the results.

The voter who cannot make up his mind is entitled to say so. Maybe there ought to be a spot on the ballot where a voter can say, "I abstain." I wonder what a percentage of votes it would show.

Kennedy's Cheering Crowds Think Of FDR

By Joseph Alsop

EN ROUTE WITH KENNEDY

In this reporter's fairly long experience, there has been nothing quite comparable to travelling with Sen. Kennedy in the climactic week of the 1960 campaign.

From dawn to late at night, the people are always there, in clumps of hundreds along the highways, in crowds dense-packed behind barriers at the airports, in eager yet patiently waiting knots outside the hotels, and in many tens of thousands - - even hundreds of thousands in such a city as Los Angeles - - for the big urban parade.

But these multitudinous smiling faces, these countless wildly waving, wildly reaching hands, are not so impressive merely because of their incalculable numbers. They are so impressive, rather, because of the feeling which Kennedy has somehow inspired in these people.

Slowly, at the merest snail's pace, the open convertible carries him forward through the clotted masses of humanity. He stands to wave, or leans to touch the offered hands. The people surge about, and over, and behind the car. And almost every face visibly glows with affection and with hope.

It is mysterious how any modern politician, in this less and less personal and intimate era, has managed to arouse and focus on himself so much emotion, and almost all in the brief, lurid hurly-burl of this one campaign. After a day or so of the campaigning routine, one ceases to remember very clearly individual speeches, motorcades, or meetings. All the episodes of each long day begin to blur into one onother. But the unvarying emotion of the people always remains vivid and memorable and distinct.

What is it, then? What is the character, what is the nature, of this feeling Kennedy has known how to stir? One clue to the puzzle is perhaps provided by what the people say after the convertible has passed onward. I made the arduous, even somewhat perilous experiment of following behind Kennedy's car for a while. I found that as the cheers died and the surging ceased, the people would quite often turn to one another and say, "He could be another F. D. R.," or, "He looks like another Roosevelt, let's pray he is," or something of that sort.

This was the nearest to self-analysis that they ever came, at any rate. It was curious, too, how many of those who looked at Kennedy and remembered Franklin Roosevelt could hardly have remembered the Roosevelt of the first years of the New Deal - - the years when cold fear was driven out.

That young father, for instance, with his three children festooned over his shoulders who kept telling his four-year-old son, "Always remember that! You've seen the Senator, you've seen the Senator! Always remember that!" He must have been an eighteen-year-old G. I. when the far-flung armies of the West got the news of what had happened at Warm Springs on April 12, 1945. So many of the others are in the young father's generation, too.

Perhaps indeed the recollection of that day at Warm Springs, and of the whole world in mourning after that day, is another clue to the present enigma. For all that was controversial about Franklin Roosevelt, all that used to stir anger or doubt, has begun to be forgotten. What is now remembered is the great leader, able to inspire America and the world, who was lost on the eve of victory unimaginable. That is the Roosevelt for whom nostalgia is so widely felt today.

The strange tides of our politics caused the American majority to hanker for comfort and reassurance and consolidation in 1952 and 1956 - - and in 1952 and 1956 the folk memory of Franklin Roosevelt gave no aid to Adlai Stevenson. But the tides are running differently now, or so it seems. The call to comfort no longer commands its former audience. The country listens, now, for a call to greatness.

Kennedy's success - - if he has succeeded - - most certainly must be understood in these terms. It is widely said that he has been "promising everything." But his chief social promises - - more aid to education, stronger housing bills, a better minimum wage law, and medical care for the aged - - do not make an unduly formidable list. Latterly, moreover, the Vice President has been making almost much the same promises. The promises, in truth, cannot be the secret of Kennedy's success.

The secret is, I think, twofold. The flat, Boston voice, chopping out the short and vivid sentences, somehow conveys both a strong concern and a deep commitment - - a concern for the less privileged in the American community, and a commitment to the high destiny of America.

Maybe the concern is pretended. Maybe the commitment is assumed. No man on earth, including the candidate himself, can tell what sort of President the candidate will make until the election is over and the candidate passes the portals of the White House. But vast numbers of the American people are now convinced of the reality and power of this concern and commitment. That is why the faces are alight with hope and affection, and why they remember F. D. R., when Kennedy comes campaigning among them.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PRESIDENTIAL POLLS — The presidential campaign is drawing to a close. An expected 60 million-plus American voters will give their answer to the great flow of words that has beset their ears since last July.

The outcome is in doubt. The polls are close, hedging on the indications of their own figures by pointing out the necessary inaccuracies of their samplings and the uncertainties of predictions caused by last-minute shifts in voter preferences.

In some quarters, sentiments have been expressed about the similarities of the ruthless characteristics of the two contestants. Their drive and determination have been belittled much as Shakespeare belittled the quality of ambition in Julius Caesar.

This view is not shared by official Washington, which recognizes more clearly than most other sections of the country that drive, determination, ambition — "Steel" if you will — are vitally necessary characteristics of the occupant of the White House.

A President sits at the very apex of the pressures that permeate Washington. He is the decision-maker. He must, in the last analysis, weigh the divergent factors in many complex situations and arrive at a judgment of what is best for the United States. It is no place for a kind man, a friendly man, or one who can be swayed by any elements other than the basic ingredients of a problem.

In private conversation in Washington, there are frequently expressed opinions of admiration for both Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy. Many persons in high government and congressional positions have remarked that the United States is fortunate to have two such men as these running for the Presidency. Either man will be the "best" man for the country.

CAMPAIGN SIGNS — At a Nixon rally, a sign read: "Unemployed Democrats Welcome You to Our Ranks." At a Kennedy rally, a sign read: "Kennedy Cocktail: America on the Rocks."

Exercise Promotes Coronary Circulation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A man is indeed wealthy if he has an abundant coronary circulation to his heart. It is his best protection against death from our No. 1 killer, coronary thrombosis.

The coronary vessels supply the wall of the heart with blood. They are not big vessels, so the more the merrier, because they tend to narrow as the years skip by. It helps to be amply equipped in this way also should one branch become obstructed (thrombosis) because blood can then reach the stricken muscle through other vessels.

The collateral circulation makes a whale of a difference to anyone who survives a heart attack. It means healing in six weeks and a ticker as good as new. In addition, when collateral circulation is ample, there is less likelihood of developing residual chest pain or shortness of breath on exertion.

Is there any way to delay hardening of the arteries? Yes, but it is not always easy if there is a hereditary tendency along this line: we cannot get new grandparents. On the other hand, we can avoid or control high blood pressure, obesity, diabetes, and tension — factors that hasten the development of arteriosclerosis.

Exercise promotes coronary circulation. Walking is best and easiest but there is no harm in riding a bike, rowing, gardening, skating, swimming, fishing, and playing noncompetitive sports.

Keeping the cholesterol level in the blood within normal limits may be helpful. This is done through diet or using products that lower the cholesterol level. These include Triparanol, vegetable steroids, nicotinic acid, and vegetable oils.

WART ON SOLE

M. P. writes: Are plantar warts curable?

REPLY

Yes, via electrocautery, chemicals, or surgery. It is not always easy to distinguish a plantar wart from a callus produced by a fallen arch or other foot defect. In these instances the "wart" will not heal unless the pressure point is eliminated.

SUGAR AND CHOLESTEROL

C. L. writes: Does the blood sugar go up when the cholesterol level rises in a diabetic?

REPLY

The cholesterol level tends to be higher in diabetics than in nondiabetics. But it does not fluctuate with the blood sugar.

SEWING AS A HOBBY

C. D. writes: Is sewing hard on the heart of an elderly woman? I like it but have an enlarged heart and tire easily.

REPLY

No. Sewing is a great hobby for persons with heart disease.

INFLAMMATION

C. H. O. writes: What is aseptic meningitis?

REPLY

Inflammation of the membrane surrounding the brain, caused by the ECHO virus. Bacteria are not found in the spinal fluid.

COATED TONGUE

L. E. writes: Is a dark brown tongue a sign of cancer?

REPLY

Not necessarily—you may have been eating chocolate. On the other hand, a dark brown tongue is associated with various illnesses, including uremia, peritonitis, liver disease and a number of gastrointestinal disorders including cancer. I'm certain if you had any of these disorders, the color of the tongue would be incidental. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on coated tongue.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Harry Oliver, self-proclaimed "desert rat," owns a wise old dog named Whiskers. Oliver noted that Whiskers was growing just a wee bit deaf, so he bought him a hearing aid. Whiskers mistook the aid for a new kind of dog biscuit and swallowed it. "Now," maintains Oliver — with a perfectly straight face, "poor old Whiskers keeps hearing his stomach rumble and thinks it's thunder. He keeps scampering inside the house to get out of the rain."

Oliver is the inventor of the annual Palm Springs lazy dog contest. The laziest dog and its owner both get prizes. The contest was discontinued after a fiasco in 1957. Both the dog and its owner were too lazy to move ten feet and collect their prizes.

"Who says it never rains in our desert?" demands Oliver. "We had a 6-inch rain only last September. By that I mean that the drops were six inches apart."

Americans Don't Appreciate Their Right To Vote And Run For Office

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his second grandson, George L. Arnold Jr.)

WASHINGTON, D. C.
November 7, 1960

Dear Georgie,

I sure had a good time going out with you on Halloween for tricks or treats in Los Angeles. That devil's mask you wore would have scared me to death if I hadn't known that a very nice little boy was behind it.

I am now back in Washington where everyone is preparing for another big night — the elections.

There are two important days around this time of the year — Halloween and election day. For you and your brothers I guess the biggest day is Halloween. But when you get a little older you will come to think of election day as more important, because that's the day we can all go out and vote for the man who's going to lead us as President and for the other men who are going to write our laws in Congress.

In a lot of countries people can't vote for the men who are going to govern them. So we Americans have a very great privilege. We don't always appreciate it, and some Americans don't even use that privilege. In the Philippines, for instance, about 99 per cent of the people vote, while over here only about 60 per cent vote. We don't seem to realize how well off we are.

Running For Congress

You weren't old enough to remember the time your daddy ran for Congress. He knew it would be difficult to win and he hadn't any money to use to pay for his campaign. But he ran anyway, largely because there was no one else who was willing to take on such a thankless job.

Your daddy ran, incidentally, in the same Los Angeles district where your brother Drew's schoolteacher, Norman Hass, is now running. I have never met Mr. Hass, but I understand he is running under the same circumstances — without any money and because nobody else would run.

Many people don't like to run for office because first it takes a lot of money, and because they get called a lot of names by the people running against them. Nevertheless, it's very important that good people run for Congress, and for the municipal council, and for school boards, and for the state legislature. These jobs don't pay very much, but they are very important just the same.

When you get a little older you'll also understand that when you see a man running for office who doesn't have much money to spend on billboards, he's likely to pass laws for the plain ordinary people more than the man who has a lot of money to spend on billboards and handbills and campaign literature; because a man with a lot of money to spend usually gets it from some big interest that wants the candidate to pass laws for it after he's elected. In a sense they take a political mortgage on his future.

Bigotry In Miami

After I left you in California on Halloween night I flew to Florida where I watched an election campaign that illustrates what I'm talking about. This was for the Miami School Board, which decides on the teachers who teach in school and makes sure that enough schools are built, and raises the money to pay for them.

One man running for the Miami School Board is a banker named Jack D. Gordon, who thinks schools are important, so he took time out from all his other work to campaign for this job. Most businessmen wouldn't bother about this kind of thankless public office, which doesn't pay any salary. But Mr. Gordon just wanted to improve the schools.

However, it happens that Mr. Gordon is a Jew. And the Miami schools happen to be in the middle of an argument over whether the Bible should be read in school. The Protestant ministers want the Bible read, but some others don't, so the argument is being settled by the Florida courts.

It cannot be settled by the school board. The board has to obey the court, whichever way the court rules. However, because Mr. Gordon is Jewish, circulars have been sent out by some of the Protestant church groups attacking him, and his opponent has said things about his integrity and loyalty — in the same way Sen. Joe McCarthy once attacked people. Your grandfather Thurman Arnold came to their defense during McCarthy's day, and someday get him to tell you about it.

This business of bringing religion into politics is a very dangerous thing. In Miami Donald Swanson of the Protestant Ministerial Association told Protestant ministers "Thank gosh we have a good Republican Christian we can endorse for the school board." He didn't seem to realize that the Christian religion was really taken from the Jewish prophets and that Christianity has become a wonderful religion because of that Jewish background.

But I have a strong feeling that a lot of Americans are getting away from putting religion into politics and that a great many Protestants in Miami will go out of their way to vote for Mr. Gordon because he is a Jew and for Senator Kennedy because he is a Catholic, so that we can show the world — and what is more important, our inner selves—that we are all free of religious prejudice.

I am sure that in your class at school you never bother about the religion of the boy who sits next to you. That's the way it should be and we adults should learn a lesson from our children.

Please give my love to your mother and I'll see you after this difficult but very important election is over.

With Love,
Your Grandfather

Committees

By Leslie Gould

At the University of Michigan, an otherwise splendid factory of learning, I read with no little dismay that two rival student groups are doing a brisk business in selling duplicated notes taken at the lectures. Notes are taken by two honor students, then correlated and checked by a committee of three, then sold at ten to fifteen cents a lecture or ten dollars a semester to the scholars.

So now we can add learning by committee to journalism by committee, esthetics by committee, and, of course, government by committee. Is there anything left on earth that is not done by committee? Well, we don't yet make love by committee. But it'll come, it'll come. A couple of A students at love-making will lay out the general outline of action, then it would be handed over to the specialist to correlate the details, finalize dates and techniques, polish . . . aah, the hell with it.

This commercialized note-taking has been given the reluctant approval of Roger M. Heyns, dean of the Literary College, who, however, castigated it as "lecturing at its worst." It most emphatically is. Taking notes—as opposed to reading somebody else's printed, store-bought notes—is part of the learning process. As the words enter the ears, travel down the right arm, and are fixed in some reasonable semblance of order on the notebook, small but important crumbs of learning remain indelibly fixed in the crevasses of the brain. That has always been the hope of the educators and the experience of the most rock-skulled students. At least the guy's got to stay awake during the lecture and it takes a degree of awareness (perhaps 20 per cent) to write even incoherent English.

This buying somebody else's notes instead of taking your own is one more distressing sample of the increasing fragmentation—I hate to use these big words, but, damn it, there's no better one—of the human being, the increasing specialization of human activity.

It's invading everything. Cooking, for example. You buy the food in the supermarket, frozen, and above all, prepared. The peas are shelled. The carrots are shredded. (My favorite recipe, girls, opened with the unforgettable words: "Dice one elk.") "Time" magazine, for example, is the most conspicuous example. One person asks the questions, another person writes it down, somebody else from a different part of the building correlates (lovely word) and assembles this information into Timese, and sometimes still another checks the fact. The result of all this superb pooling of effort, this marvelous teamwork of brain power, is that they get the story far wronger than any individual reporter could manage on his own. It takes a lot of reporters—and very bright ones—to get a fact as wildly out of focus as can a "Time" committee.

Beall Beats Bruce, 2-1, Wins Soccer Championship

Carter's Goal Breaks Tie In Final Quarter

Mountaineers End Campaign Unbeaten; Aggies Triumph, 4-1

WMI SOCCER LEAGUE

(Final Standings)

School	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	OP.	T.
Beall	7	0	1	33	7	15
Bruce	6	1	1	23	3	13
Flintstone	3	5	0	8	17	6
Valley	1	6	1	10	25	3
Mt. Savage	1	6	1	7	29	3

(Teams are awarded two points for each win and one point for each tie game)

A field goal by Gilbert Carter, outside left, in the final period, enabled Coach Edward C. Finzel's Beall High School booters to defeat Bruce High School's Bulldogs yesterday at Frostburg by the score of 2-1 and win the championship of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League.

Approximately 1,000 spectators saw the season finale between the teams that battled to a 1-1 tie earlier in the season. The Mountaineers and the Bulldogs were deadlocked for first place prior to yesterday's showdown battle with 6-0-1 records.

Spiker Scores First

Beall drew first blood five minutes after the battle got under way when Milburn Spiker, center halfback, blasted a field goal from 38 yards out. The Bruce goalie misjudged the ball which sailed beneath the crossbar.

The teams fought to a scoreless tie in the second period but in the third quarter Spiker, attempting to clear the ball within the shadow of the goal posts, headed it into the net enabling the Bulldogs to tie the score. Mike Warnick, inside left, was the last Bruce player to kick the ball and he was credited with the goal that Spiker headed through.

Carter's winning goal in the final period came on a follow-up shot after the Bruce goalie had fumbled the ball.

Scored 33 Points

The victory was Beall's fourth in a row since the 1-1 draw at Westernport October 21 and the two points upped the Mountaineers' total to 33 in eight games against seven tallies for the opposition. Bruce had yielded only one point in seven previous games this season and wound up with a total of 23 against three for opposing elevens.

Beall captured its first WMI League soccer championship since 1951 and this was the fifth winner for "Ebbie" Finzel, who has been coaching Mountaineer teams for 25 years. The one-time Penn State All-American booter, who played college soccer under Bill Jeffrey, also turned out championship teams at Beall in 1938, 1945, 1946, and 1947. Beall's first league championship team was the 1929 eleven coached by J. Stanley Hunter.

Bald Eagle 2-1 Choice For Friday's Big Race

British And Irish Horses At Laurel; $70,000 For Victor

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Two British and an Irish horse planed in from overseas Monday to join eight others for the ninth running of the invitational $100,000 Washington D. C. International Friday. The arrivals completed the field from six nations.

Last to arrive on the scene for the colorful mile and one half global classic were England's Apostle II and Prolific, and Farrney Fox from Ireland. "They arrived in good shape," said one of five handlers. The trio made a brief stop in New York.

They joined the United States' Bald Eagle, winner of the 1959 International, and Sword Dancer: Puissant Chef and Hautian of France who ran one-two in the recent Prix L'Arc de Triomphe in Paris. Santa Severa and Rio Martin, first Italian horses ever to come over for the race; and Zabeg from the Soviet Republic and Zacorny representing the Ukrainian Republic.

Bald Eagle Favorite

Probable favorite at 2-1 for the world famous race is Bald Eagle, a 5-year-old owned by the Cain Hoy Stable of Capt. Harry F. Guggenheim. Next comes the Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer, 1959 Horse of the Year at 3-1.

The French challengers are next, Puissant Chef 6 to 1, and Hautian 8-1. European tipsters warn not to overlook the Italian duo.

However, this is one race where the unexpected occurs more often than not. Three American horses were espected to gallop home 1-2-3 on the infield grass course in the 1952 inaugural. Britain's Wilwyn surprised by winning in track record time.

$70,000 For Winner

Actually, no post time favorite has gone into the flag bedecked winner's circle, where the victor will collect $70,000.

France's Wilwyn bounced home first in 1953, Fisherman of the U. S. in 1954, and the list of winners since then names the Venezuela's El Chama, France's Master Boing, English-bred but American owned Mahan, Australia's Sailor's Guide through disqualification of Tudor Era, and Bald Eagle.

Chicago Bears Sue Chargers For $300,000

Charge Anderson Broke His Contract

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bears sued the Los Angeles Chargers of the new American Football League Monday for $300,000 for "maliciously inducing" end Ralph Anderson to break his contract to play with the Bears this season.

Owner - Coach George Halas said Anderson had signed a 1960 Bear contract and had assured the club as late as June that he would play for the Bears.

He contended that the Chargers induced him to break his contract and agree to play with the Chargers while Anderson was on the West Coast.

The suit was filed against the Chargers rather than Anderson because "we are convinced Anderson is the victim of some very bad advice," he said.

"There is no future for professional football unless responsible club officials adhere to ethical standards and honor contract obligations of all players and clubs" he said.

Anderson has been a starter with the Chargers and a leading pass receiver in the league.

Halas said he also was considering filing a suit against American League Commissioner Joe Foss for his statements about Halas and the Bears in connection with the Anderson incident.

Pitt Eyes Bowl Bid, Seeks Win Over Army Team

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A Pitt victory over Army at the Stadium here Saturday would go far toward further enhancing Panther chances for a post - season bowl bid.

With this in mind, the Pitt players displayed an unusual amount of hustle during their workout Monday. Panther stock has been on the rise since their victories over Syracuse and Notre Dame.

Coach Johnny Michelosen would like nothing better than to have his team turn in a sparkling performance against the Cadets, who upset Syracuse, 9-6, last week.

The victory over the Orange was a real morale booster for the Cadets who may come into the Stadium brimming with confidence. On the other hand, although the Panthers trimmed Notre Dame, 20-13, last week they were hard pressed for the victory.

Pitt coaches said the Irish gave the Panthers their toughest game of the season.

Another of the philosophical talks by Earl Nightingale as broadcast on "Our Changing World"

The other day I was reading about our universe, and what we know and don't know about it. About the billions and billions of stars and planets, and of the millions of galaxies like our Milky Way, separated by distance so vast it takes light (which travels 186,000 miles per second) about 2,000,000 years to cross these almost incomprehensible distances. We've got astronomers sitting in front of telescopes looking at stars, not as they are now, but as they were 500,000,000 years ago. That's how long it took their light to reach us, give or take a few years!

I've got a hunch why astronomers and scientists are so curious, as we all are, about other worlds and other galaxies. It's partly because of what we call "greener pastures." The hope that seems to spring eternal in all human beings that the livings and the opportunities are better and greater somewhere else. I suppose it has been this uniquely human attribute, or frailty, that is at the root of all discovery.

But it's a fact that most people let this business of thinking the next pasture may be greener keep them from properly developing their own pasture. While we're looking at what the other guy is doing, and wishing we were in his pasture, others are wishing they were in ours. And it's a proven fact that there is more opportunity hidden in our daily work than we could developed in a lifetime — if we'd only look for it long enough to find it. It's like the story of the African farmer who sold his farm and spent the rest of his life hunting a continent for diamonds, only to have the richest diamond mine in the world developed on the farm he'd sold.

I don't know if you've ever thought much about this, but, there is no such thing as a job that can't lead to greatness — if we'll take the time and thought to become great at what we do — at what we now do — where we are now.

Unless we take the time, thought, and study to become outstanding at what we are now doing, why in the world should we think we could become great at something else? But somehow it always looks easier to succeed in the other fellow's line of work. It once looked so good to me, that I climbed the fence out of my pasture. By the time I'd scrambled back in again my little excursion cost me thirty thousand dollars. I had gone into a business where I was short on experience — and, as usually happens in such a case, I got burned on the wallet. If I'd devoted the same time and effort to my own line of work, I'd have been much better off.

Now, I'm not saying you can't go into another line of work, or into a different business. But I am saying, don't go into something until you know everything it's possible to know about it. And more important still, look long and carefully at the pasture you're now in. Chances are it's loaded with opportunities that someone else is going to come along and profit by, if you don't.

You see, if you merely compete with everyone else in your line you've got to be satisfied with the same returns, the same rewards, they're getting. But, if you create, the sky's the limit. Take the experience you already have in what you are now doing and you can build a stairway to just about anything you and your family could want.

The law of economics tells us that our rewards in life will always be in exact proportion to our contributions. How can you increase your contribution to man — in what you are now doing? Your rewards will take care of themselves.

Beall Beats Bruce, 2-1, Wins Soccer Championship

Carter's Goal Breaks Tie In Final Quarter

Mountaineers End Campaign Unbeaten; Aggies Triumph, 4-1

School	W.	L.	T.	Pts.	OP.	T.
Beall	7	0	1	33	7	15
Bruce	6	1	1	23	3	13
Flintstone	3	5	0	8	17	6
Valley	1	6	1	10	25	3
Mt. Savage	1	6	1	7	29	3

(Teams are awarded two points for each win and one point for each tie game)

A field goal by Gilbert Carter, outside left, in the final period, enabled Coach Edward C. Finzel's Beall High School booters to defeat Bruce High School's Bulldogs yesterday at Frostburg by the score of 2-1 and win the championship of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League.

Approximately 1,000 spectators saw the season finale between the teams that battled to a 1-1 tie earlier in the season. The Mountaineers and the Bulldogs were deadlocked for first place prior to yesterday's showdown battle with 6-0-1 records.

Spiker Scores First

Beall drew first blood five minutes after the battle got under way when Milburn Spiker, center halfback, blasted a field goal from 38 yards out. The Bruce goalie misjudged the ball which sailed beneath the crossbar.

The teams fought to a scoreless tie in the second period but in the third quarter Spiker, attempting to clear the ball within the shadow of the goal posts, headed it into the net enabling the Bulldogs to tie the score. Mike Warnick, inside left, was the last Bruce player to kick the ball and he was credited with the goal that Spiker headed through.

Carter's winning goal in the final period came on a follow-up shot after the Bruce goalie had fumbled the ball.

Scored 33 Points

The victory was Beall's fourth in a row since the 1-1 draw at Westernport October 21 and the two points upped the Mountaineers' total to 33 in eight games against seven tallies for the opposition. Bruce had yielded only one point in seven previous games this season and wound up with a total of 23 against three for opposing elevens.

Beall captured its first WMI League soccer championship since 1951 and this was the fifth winner for "Ebbie" Finzel, who has been coaching Mountaineer teams for 25 years. The one-time Penn State All-American booter, who played college soccer under Bill Jeffrey, also turned out championship teams at Beall in 1938, 1945, 1946, and 1947. Beall's first league championship team was the 1929 eleven coached by J. Stanley Hunter.

Ticket Scalpers Are Fined $1,312

ATLANTA (UPI)—Scalpers who asked up to $50 for $5 tickets to the Georgia Tech-Tennessee football game Saturday were fined a total of $1,312 here Monday.

Of a total of 21 young men who were nabbed by Atlanta detectives as they attempted to sell tickets, 18 were convicted and fined Monday while the cases of three others were postponed until Nov. 17th.

The heaviest fine was the forfeiture of a $500 bond by Bill Tilson, 25, of Knoxville—one of 10 persons from Tennessee caught by police.

Police testified before Judge Luke Arnold that they went around Georgia Tech's Grant Field and arrested those persons they were able to catch in the act of selling tickets at above regular rates.

Galloway Cops Scoring Crown

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Halfback Allan Galloway of Alderson turned in one of his greatest performances last week as he clinched the West Virginia high school football scoring championship.

The 6-foot-1, 175-pounder scored three touchdowns, passed for two others and added three extra points as Alderson posted a 33-19 victory over arch-rival Hinton.

The win clinched a Class A playoff spot for unbeaten Alderson and gave Galloway 183 points for the season — 73 better than Ron Rea of Williamstown who finished with 110 for the season.

Trade Players

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Rangers Monday traded their "problem child," Eddie Shack, to the Toronto Maple Leafs for Johnny Wilson and Pat Hannigan.

Garmaker Returns

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dick Garmaker, former University of Minnesota star who retired from professional basketball in September, will rejoin the New York Knickerbockers of the National Basketball Association this week, the Knicks announced Monday.

Another of the philosophical talks by Earl Nightingale as broadcast on "Our Changing World"

The other day I was reading about our universe, and what we know and don't know about it. About the billions and billions of stars and planets, and of the millions of galaxies like our Milky Way, separated by distance so vast it takes light (which travels 186,000 miles per second) about 2,000,000 years to cross these almost incomprehensible distances. We've got astronomers sitting in front of telescopes looking at stars, not as they are now, but as they were 500,000,000 years ago. That's how long it took their light to reach us, give or take a few years!

I've got a hunch why astronomers and scientists are so curious, as we all are, about other worlds and other galaxies. It's partly because of what we call "greener pastures." The hope that seems to spring eternal in all human beings that the livings and the opportunities are better and greater somewhere else. I suppose it has been this uniquely human attribute, or frailty, that is at the root of all discovery.

But it's a fact that most people let this business of thinking the next pasture may be greener keep them from properly developing their own pasture. While we're looking at what the other guy is doing, and wishing we were in his pasture, others are wishing they were in ours. And it's a proven fact that there is more opportunity hidden in our daily work than we could developed in a lifetime — if we'd only look for it long enough to find it. It's like the story of the African farmer who sold his farm and spent the rest of his life hunting a continent for diamonds, only to have the richest diamond mine in the world developed on the farm he'd sold.

I don't know if you've ever thought much about this, but, there is no such thing as a job that can't lead to greatness — if we'll take the time and thought to become great at what we do — at what we now do — where we are now.

Unless we take the time, thought, and study to become outstanding at what we are now doing, why in the world should we think we could become great at something else? But somehow it always looks easier to succeed in the other fellow's line of work. It once looked so good to me, that I climbed the fence out of my pasture. By the time I'd scrambled back in again my little excursion cost me thirty thousand dollars. I had gone into a business where I was short on experience — and, as usually happens in such a case, I got burned on the wallet. If I'd devoted the same time and effort to my own line of work, I'd have been much better off.

Now, I'm not saying you can't go into another line of work, or into a different business. But I am saying, don't go into something until you know everything it's possible to know about it. And more important still, look long and carefully at the pasture you're now in. Chances are it's loaded with opportunities that someone else is going to come along and profit by, if you don't.

You see, if you merely compete with everyone else in your line you've got to be satisfied with the same returns, the same rewards, they're getting. But, if you create, the sky's the limit. Take the experience you already have in what you are now doing and you can build a stairway to just about anything you and your family could want.

The law of economics tells us that our rewards in life will always be in exact proportion to our contributions. How can you increase your contribution to man — in what you are now doing? Your rewards will take care of themselves.

Bobby Corle Wins Aboard Tuscan Flash

Entry Finishes 1-2 In Laurel Feature

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—Phillip Williams' Tuscan Flash and Mrs. D. M. Fontana's Shiawasee were coupled as the John H. C. Forbes-trained entry in the featured eight race here today and finished first and second, respectively, at odds-on in the wagering.

Working smoothly as a team on the turf course, Shiawasee set the pace and killed off the speed horses of the 8-horse field and then Tuscan Flash closed gamely through the stretch to win by three-parts of a length from his barnmate. The winner was handled by Bobby Corle and ran a mile and sixteenth on "firm" grass in 1.44 4/5.

After doing his job well, Shiawasee was tiring badly at the finish, but gained a photo decision over W. W. Waters' Galway Bay for the place award. The entry paid 9-to-10 to win and 1-to-2 odds to place.

Another big daily double resulted from scores of Main Line Joe and Chief Paduke in the first and second races. The 8 and 6 combination paid $690.20.

The mutuel department reported two $10 tickets and 89 $2 tickets sold on the winning daily double combination.

Longden Pilots 5,469th Winner

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)—Johnny Longden, 53-year-old jockey champion, returned to the racing wars at Golden Gate Fields Monday and immediately got into his winning ways when he rode Challenge All to victory in the feature race.

It was Longden's 5,469th racing victory over a 35 - year career and the winner paid $5.40 going the mile in 1:38 2-5. It was Longden's first day in action since he was injured in a spill at Del Mar on Labor Day. He finished third on another mount in the fifth race.

Bobby Corle Wins Aboard Tuscan Flash

Entry Finishes 1-2 In Laurel Feature

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 7 (AP)—Phillip Williams' Tuscan Flash and Mrs. D. M. Fontana's Shiawasee were coupled as the John H. C. Forbes-trained entry in the featured eight race here today and finished first and second, respectively, at odds-on in the wagering.

Working smoothly as a team on the turf course, Shiawasee set the pace and killed off the speed horses of the 8-horse field and then Tuscan Flash closed gamely through the stretch to win by three-parts of a length from his barnmate. The winner was handled by Bobby Corle and ran a mile and sixteenth on "firm" grass in 1.44 4/5.

After doing his job well, Shiawasee was tiring badly at the finish, but gained a photo decision over W. W. Waters' Galway Bay for the place award. The entry paid 9-to-10 to win and 1-to-2 odds to place.

Another big daily double resulted from scores of Main Line Joe and Chief Paduke in the first and second races. The 8 and 6 combination paid $690.20.

The mutuel department reported two $10 tickets and 89 $2 tickets sold on the winning daily double combination.

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI)—Johnny Longden, 53-year-old jockey champion, returned to the racing wars at Golden Gate Fields Monday and immediately got into his winning ways when he rode Challenge All to victory in the feature race.

It was Longden's 5,469th racing victory over a 35 - year career and the winner paid $5.40 going the mile in 1:38 2-5. It was Longden's first day in action since he was injured in a spill at Del Mar on Labor Day. He finished third on another mount in the fifth race.

"Beautiful behavior is the finest of the fine arts."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Beautiful Behavior Is Better Than A Beautiful Form"

Emerson once said: "A beautiful form is better than a beautiful face; a beautiful behavior is better than a beautiful form . . . it is the finest of the fine arts." Discarding bad, selfish manners can do more for teen charm and popularity than a whole new wardrobe. Consideration of others is the A-B-C of the whole code of etiquette and gracious behavior. Any rudeness in thought or deed robs you of your personal charm.

If a girl has declined dancing with one boy, she must never under any conditions afterwards accept the same dance with another. And, when dancing . . . she should never refuse to change partners and dance with another boy if he cuts in. When she does dance and the boy thanks her . . . she should answer, "Thank you, too," or, "I enjoyed it, too."

Charm is made up of a number of small things. But your total charm is no small thing. And, contrary to many beliefs, the pursuit of it is far removed from selfish conceits. To learn what we of the Powers "family" believe that every girl or woman needs to make herself completely attractive, send for my vitality-giving charm increaser, "Personality Plus, through Diet." Address me, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 25c and your name and address.

"Beautiful behavior is the finest of the fine arts."

Secrets Of Charm

"Beautiful Behavior Is Better Than A Beautiful Form"

Emerson once said: "A beautiful form is better than a beautiful face; a beautiful behavior is better than a beautiful form . . . it is the finest of the fine arts." Discarding bad, selfish manners can do more for teen charm and popularity than a whole new wardrobe. Consideration of others is the A-B-C of the whole code of etiquette and gracious behavior. Any rudeness in thought or deed robs you of your personal charm.

If a girl has declined dancing with one boy, she must never under any conditions afterwards accept the same dance with another. And, when dancing . . . she should never refuse to change partners and dance with another boy if he cuts in. When she does dance and the boy thanks her . . . she should answer, "Thank you, too," or, "I enjoyed it, too."

Charm is made up of a number of small things. But your total charm is no small thing. And, contrary to many beliefs, the pursuit of it is far removed from selfish conceits. To learn what we of the Powers "family" believe that every girl or woman needs to make herself completely attractive, send for my vitality-giving charm increaser, "Personality Plus, through Diet." Address me, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 25c and your name and address.

Market Posts Slight Gain In Pre-Election Session

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks squeeked through with a narrow gain Monday in a spirited session of squaring things away for the big off-street bout Tuesday.

Most price changes were accomplished in the first hour of heavy trading with the list mostly moving sidewise until the very end where another late tape indicated last minute switching in preparation for election results.

Monday's windup was the sixth gain in a row on average lending further credence to the theory that traders aren't too worried which man comes out on top in Tuesday's fracas. The consensus leans to a shoo-in upsurge if the Republicans win while a Kennedy victory is by now so tainted with alleged inflation by investors that this too should bolster prices.

Meanwhile, chemicals and nonferrous metals ran up the best gains in Monday's gyrations while defense issues, deemed likely to benefit from any eventually, also scored good gains. Most electronics, food shares and building materials were on the upside.

The Dow-Jones industrial average gained a slim 1.56 to 597.63, rails eased 0.19 to 128.03 and utilities dipped 0.58 to 93.17. Volume rose substantially to 3,540,000 shares from 3,050,000 on Friday.

An indication of how much last minute switching was going on came from the market breakdown figures which revealed a very wide total of 1,260 issues traded Monday. This was the largest number since Jan. 6 when 1,264 changed hands.

Of the total, 569 ended higher, 458 lower and 233 did not change. New highs outnumbered new lows by 16 to 15.

Market Posts Slight Gain In Pre-Election Session

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks squeeked through with a narrow gain Monday in a spirited session of squaring things away for the big off-street bout Tuesday.

Most price changes were accomplished in the first hour of heavy trading with the list mostly moving sidewise until the very end where another late tape indicated last minute switching in preparation for election results.

Monday's windup was the sixth gain in a row on average lending further credence to the theory that traders aren't too worried which man comes out on top in Tuesday's fracas. The consensus leans to a shoo-in upsurge if the Republicans win while a Kennedy victory is by now so tainted with alleged inflation by investors that this too should bolster prices.

Meanwhile, chemicals and nonferrous metals ran up the best gains in Monday's gyrations while defense issues, deemed likely to benefit from any eventually, also scored good gains. Most electronics, food shares and building materials were on the upside.

The Dow-Jones industrial average gained a slim 1.56 to 597.63, rails eased 0.19 to 128.03 and utilities dipped 0.58 to 93.17. Volume rose substantially to 3,540,000 shares from 3,050,000 on Friday.

An indication of how much last minute switching was going on came from the market breakdown figures which revealed a very wide total of 1,260 issues traded Monday. This was the largest number since Jan. 6 when 1,264 changed hands.

Of the total, 569 ended higher, 458 lower and 233 did not change. New highs outnumbered new lows by 16 to 15.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Henry G. Hutt, who passed away 6 years ago today, Nov. 8, 1954.
When the evening shades are falling
And I am sitting all alone
In my heart there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Often my thoughts do wander
To your grave so far away
Where I laid you dearest husband
Six years ago today.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our beloved husband and father, Henry G. Huff, who passed away 6 years ago today, Nov. 8, 1954
When the evening shades are falling
And I am sitting all alone
In my heart there comes a longing
If you only could come home.
Often my thoughts do wander
To your grave so far away
Where I laid you dearest husband
Six years ago today.
Sadly missed by his WIFE AND CHILDREN

County Records To Be Destroyed.

Many records at the Allegany County Court House which are no longer of any use will be destroyed November 16 by officials of the State Hall of Records.

George W. Straubinger, public records administrator, and Rex Beach, assistant records administrator, will come here that day and they have requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to provide at least two men to assist with the disposal of the records which have been listed as no longer of any use.

Many of the records go back 25 or 30 years and have no legal necessity for being retained. The disposal of these records will provide additional space at the Court House for storage of current records of Circuit Court and other county departments.

Credit Union Resets Meeting

The Allegany County Teachers Federal Credit Union will not meet Wednesday as previously scheduled due to the observance of National Education Week at the various schools.

The session has been re-scheduled for Wednesday, November 16, at 7:30 p. m. in the Board of Education Administration building, Washington Street. This will be a general membership meeting.

Senior Citizens To Meet Thursday

The Senior Citizens Club, sponsored by the Recreation Department, will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Elks Club, South Center Street.

Speaker will be C. Glenn Watson who will discuss his hobby, "Poems By Edgar Guest."

The club membership drive is progressing and the "Cardinal" team of Charles Shaw is leading. Membership is open to those 60 years of age and over.

K-9 Corps Proves To Be Effective

By PATRICIA CONNOR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The man behind the dog behind the badge in the nation's capital is Terrence Patrick Cahill.

He's the trainer of the latest K-9 corps to join this country's police work. Six German shepherds are padding the Washington beat along with their masters in this new approach to closing the crime gap.

Cahill is a ruddy-cheeked, silver-haired man who would be picked as a Briton even before the accent is out of his mouth. But in good detective tradition he looks as much the part of a country gentleman as a former Scotland Yard man.

Actually, he began training police dogs in 1943 with Scotland Yard's first canine corps. After his retirement from the Yard, Baltimore imported Cahill to train its police dogs, and from there he came to Washington's aid.

Use of dogs in this type of work dates back to the 1800's, according to Cahill, when Germany began training dogs for border patrol. Germany now has around 2,000 dogs in action.

In 1913 British railway yards put dogs on patrol, and gradually their use grew as word of their effectiveness spread. Now London is a kind of "Oxford" in the dog world, training them for international jobs from Ceylon to Iraq.

"In ten years, there will be few states in the United States not using police dogs," Cahill predicted. "Every place they've been employed, crime has decreased — especially ones such as burglary and molestation."

He cited London's Hyde Park has an example where purse smatching fell from around 200 a year to 16 cases in the first year dogs were used.

Cahill has great faith in the deterrent force of police dogs. He insists their sharp eyes, ears, nose and teeth are more effective in some situations than the gun-toting human.

"It's the psychological effect of dogs," he explained. "Few even have the opportunity to actually chase a person. The criminal is afraid to run."

Stories about dog-assisted arrests back up Cahill's theory. In one city when police threatened to send a dog in after a holed-up robber he jumped through a second-story window. Another being chased by a dog actually threw his gun away.

Eventually, as experience and funds grow, dogs may even become specialists within police departments — such as on the narcotics squad.

Cahill told of an incident where a dog located hidden heroin after a police search failed to uncover it. The four-legged sleuths already are used in finding lost persons, searching ships, and some unexpected tasks.

Unlike war dogs, these shepherds are not trained to go for flesh or the throat. Instead they will leap for the gun or the right arm if their quarry offers trouble. Despite such a gentlemanly code of ethics, Cahill assures they are respected by the underworld. And, he added, they can be especially effective in stopping riots before they ever start.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it fair of my father to hold it against a boy just because he happens to have a beard?

Chet is an awfully nice kid. He may be a little eccentric, but so are a lot of artists, writers and musicians. Chet is 17 years old and he has red hair and freckles. I'll admit that a red beard is a bit of a shock when he walks into a room but is that a good enough reason for my dad to say he doesn't want to see that "screw-ball" around our house any more? Dad says I can go out with normal boys, but no nuts. Please, Ann, help me. — BROKEN HEARTED SOPHIE

DEAR BROKEN HEARTED: Sorry, but a 17-year-old kid with a red beard is too far out.

Chet is using the beard as a gimmick to draw attention to himself. Apparently he doesn't have enough confidence in his personality, his brains, or his achievements.

Tell Chet if he values your friendship to please shave and not try for Kooksville.

DEAR ANN: Our mother is divorced. We don't hear from Dad because he has remarried and lives out of town. He sends support money and Mom gets alimony.

I am a boy thirteen and I may not be very old but I'm old enough to know that a man shouldn't be sleeping on our couch almost every night. We are supposed to call him Uncle Jack, but he's no uncle, and that's for sure.

He keeps some of his clothes here and eats with us almost every night. We kids don't think this is very nice. The Ten Commandments says we are supposed to honor our mother. How can we? — ASHAMED KIDS

DEAR ASHAMED KIDS: Of course it isn't right, and you are to be congratulated for your good sense in the face of the poor example being set for you.

Every one of the Ten Commandments is good. I say to you kids, honor your mother, whether she deserves it or not. Maybe one day she'll be worthy of it.

DEAR ANN: The wisest thing for an employe to do when he catches a fellow-worker stealing is not to tell the thief — but to inform management, so a check can be put on him. Then when the thief is caught, he's caught by management, and no one else need be involved. —MR. D.

DEAR MR. D.: I am inclined to agree that your advice is better than mine. I yield to your more practical and realistic point of view. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a very worried mother who needs help. Our 13-year-old son has been promoted into the seventh grade and HE CANNOT READ.

How in the world he got so far in school I will never be able to understand. I put the blame squarely on the teachers who promoted him.

His grades were never anything to shout about but he never flunked anything. He must have fooled everybody by picking up just enough to get by from listening.

Yesterday when I asked him to read the directions off a cake box because I mislaid my glasses, I discovered he doesn't know even the simplest words such as "cup" and "mix." I'm shocked and disturbed. What kind of schools do we have in this country anyway? Is this what we are paying taxes for? Please tell me what to do with this boy.—W.W.W.

DEAR W.W.W.: I agree it's pretty sad commentary when a student who can't read is permitted to enter the seventh grade. If your son is thirteen and this is the first time you've heard him read aloud, where in heaven's name have you been? ? ?

Ask the school principal to direct you to a private tutor who specializes in remedial reading. Your son needs concentrated instruction and must be started at the A B C level.

Some mothers are able to manage with the help of proper textbooks, but you sound too emotionally involved with the boy. I suggest a trained professional.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dream Finally Comes To End

By JAMES BUCKNER

WELLS, Nev. (UPI) — The dream of an agricultural paradise in the midst of the Nevada wastelands will officially end this fall.

At that time the 27 remaining residents of Metropolis will be incorporated into a political subdivision of Wells. Wells lies 10 miles north of the community.

Metropolis opened its doors to Utopia-seekers back in 1910 at prices as high as $300 an acre on the Pacific Reclamation Company's promise of 13 inches of rain a year and an enormous dam to transform the arid desert into a checkerboard of wheat, pasture and produce farms.

No one seemed to doubt the city's future. Southern Pacific Railroad ran a spur into the heart of town to cart away the harvest and the $100,000 Metropolis Hotel opened its doors, boasting the finest food in the West. Legend has it the opening night banquet was so well attended, chicken a la king turned into "jackrabbit a la king" because of the unexpected crowds.

A newspaper, the Chronicle owned by the reclamation company, began stirring hopes even higher.

To further sustain its claims, the company set up a model farm near the existing supply of water. There a Chinese tenant farmer grew oats six feet high and a record yield of turkey red wheat, forcing the price of land even higher.

For the next two years it looked as if even the loudest claims couldn't match the facts as the rainfall lived up to its advance billing.

But then the dream began to totter as the drought years came and farmers watched their land crack and blow away.

Rabbit hunts were organized to feed those who remained.

To Offer Proposal

TOKYO (UPI)—Philippines Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano said Monday he will offer a proposal at the Colombo plan meeting next week which would "spare underdeveloped nations the humiliation of looking for handouts."

Serrano did not disclose details of his proposal.

Makes Prediction

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who will be 85 in January, says he will still be around in 1984. He would be 108 then. When Ernst Majonica, a member of Adenauer's Christian democratic party, recently told Adenauer a palm-reader had told him he would be foreign minister in 1984, the crusty old chancellor replied: "We must talk about that again in the 1980s. And why not? Titian was over 100 years old, and I haven't even started to paint."

Icebreaker Docks

MOSCOW (UPI) — The atomic icebreaker Lenin has docked at Murmansk to be prepared for the next navigation season, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Sunday. Last month, Tass said the Lenin completed its first arctic navigation season, having led about 100 sea ships and river fleets through the arctic ice between July 15 and Oct. 24.

Fatal Figures Given

NOVARA, Italy (UPI)—A government official has reported that since 1946, 962 local and federal police were killed on duty in Italy. Oscar Scalfaro, undersecretary for the Ministry of Interior, gave the figure during an election speech Saturday. He said that during the same period 30,316 policemen were injured on duty.

Opportunities for both the offense and defense were offered in today's hand from a recent tournament.

The four spade contract was reached at most tables and West opened the king of diamonds, which declarer permitted to hold. A diamond was continued, taken by the ace, and declarer ruffed the third round of the suit. Marking West with the king of hearts by reason of the double, South's only hope rested with forcing West to lead that suit. In addition to which, nature would have to prove kindly in relationship to the club suit.

Declarer then drew three rounds of trumps, winding up with the queen in the dummy. The nine of clubs was led and passed to West's queen. West exited with a diamond, which took declarer's last trump. Then came the ace and jack of clubs, putting West in with the king. Nature had been kind, and North's eight of clubs was promoted to winning rank. West's forced lead of a heart permitted declarer to win with the queen to bring his total of tricks to 10.

This was a neat bit of strategy, and declarer scored a well earned game. One other player in the South position chose precisely the same line of play in his game contract, but was not as well rewarded for his pains. West, in that case, snatched the game from the lion's jaws by a very tidy defensive coup.

For the first seven tricks play proceeded, trick by trick, as described above. But at trick eight, having won with the queen of clubs, West did not return the diamond. He realized the danger that declarer would set up the fourth club in dummy and, to prevent such an occurrence, he attacked dummy's entry by leading the king of hearts. He knew there was a likelihood that South held the queen but he also knew that, sooner or later in the end play, he must lead a heart. Accepting the inevitable at once, he succeeded in bottling up dummy, and declarer fell one short of his goal.

Local Woman Admitted To Law Practice

A local woman was admitted to the practice of law in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

She is Mrs. Ruth Foreman, wife of Thomas Foreman, supervisor of systems and procedure at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company. The couple resides on Sunset View, off Braddock Road. They have two children.

Mrs. Foreman is the second woman member of the bar in this county.

Mrs. Foreman was graduated from the University of Maryland Law School.

Mrs. Genevieve Yonker Schaffer, who lives at Flintstone, also is an attorney. She has been overseas with her husband, who is in the armed services, but is now living again in Flintstone, where her two children are enrolled in school. Her ranch-style home formerly was situated at the top of Polish Mountain but was moved down into Flintstone to make room for the new U. S. Route 40.

PROPERTY VALUE

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Economist Luigi Laurenti studied real estate values in seven cities and reports in his book "Property Values and Race," published by the University of California Press, that prices in neighborhoods entered by Negroes are four times as likely to rise or remain steady as they are to fall.

HOW IT HAPPENED

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)— Ever wonder how the blimp got its name?

During World War I, the British used a smll, non - rigid airship which they called the "limp" to distinguish it from rigid zeppelins. The word "blimp" came into the language from a "Type B" limp airship which was widely used as a submarine spotter.

County Dog Found In Chicago

George E. Davis, city tax collector, received an unusual communication in yesterday's mail, the delivery bringing a request from a Chicago resident for the person who purchased a 1959 dog license.

Mrs. George Swoik wrote Mr. Davis that she had found a small dog bearing an Allegany County license tag, issued last year and numbered 3067.

The Chicago woman said she felt sure the owner of the dog would like to have it returned, and asked Davis to furnish her the name and address so that she could contact the owner.

Davis indicated he would comply with the request.

County Records To Be Destroyed.

Many records at the Allegany County Court House which are no longer of any use will be destroyed November 16 by officials of the State Hall of Records.

George W. Straubinger, public records administrator, and Rex Beach, assistant records administrator, will come here that day and they have requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to provide at least two men to assist with the disposal of the records which have been listed as no longer of any use.

Many of the records go back 25 or 30 years and have no legal necessity for being retained. The disposal of these records will provide additional space at the Court House for storage of current records of Circuit Court and other county departments.

Credit Union Resets Meeting

The Allegany County Teachers Federal Credit Union will not meet Wednesday as previously scheduled due to the observance of National Education Week at the various schools.

The session has been re-scheduled for Wednesday, November 16, at 7:30 p. m. in the Board of Education Administration building, Washington Street. This will be a general membership meeting.

Senior Citizens To Meet Thursday

The Senior Citizens Club, sponsored by the Recreation Department, will meet Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Elks Club, South Center Street.

Speaker will be C. Glenn Watson who will discuss his hobby, "Poems By Edgar Guest."

The club membership drive is progressing and the "Cardinal" team of Charles Shaw is leading. Membership is open to those 60 years of age and over.

K-9 Corps Proves To Be Effective

By PATRICIA CONNOR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The man behind the dog behind the badge in the nation's capital is Terrence Patrick Cahill.

He's the trainer of the latest K-9 corps to join this country's police work. Six German shepherds are padding the Washington beat along with their masters in this new approach to closing the crime gap.

Cahill is a ruddy-cheeked, silver-haired man who would be picked as a Briton even before the accent is out of his mouth. But in good detective tradition he looks as much the part of a country gentleman as a former Scotland Yard man.

Actually, he began training police dogs in 1943 with Scotland Yard's first canine corps. After his retirement from the Yard, Baltimore imported Cahill to train its police dogs, and from there he came to Washington's aid.

Use of dogs in this type of work dates back to the 1800's, according to Cahill, when Germany began training dogs for border patrol. Germany now has around 2,000 dogs in action.

In 1913 British railway yards put dogs on patrol, and gradually their use grew as word of their effectiveness spread. Now London is a kind of "Oxford" in the dog world, training them for international jobs from Ceylon to Iraq.

"In ten years, there will be few states in the United States not using police dogs," Cahill predicted. "Every place they've been employed, crime has decreased — especially ones such as burglary and molestation."

He cited London's Hyde Park has an example where purse smatching fell from around 200 a year to 16 cases in the first year dogs were used.

Cahill has great faith in the deterrent force of police dogs. He insists their sharp eyes, ears, nose and teeth are more effective in some situations than the gun-toting human.

"It's the psychological effect of dogs," he explained. "Few even have the opportunity to actually chase a person. The criminal is afraid to run."

Stories about dog-assisted arrests back up Cahill's theory. In one city when police threatened to send a dog in after a holed-up robber he jumped through a second-story window. Another being chased by a dog actually threw his gun away.

Eventually, as experience and funds grow, dogs may even become specialists within police departments — such as on the narcotics squad.

Cahill told of an incident where a dog located hidden heroin after a police search failed to uncover it. The four-legged sleuths already are used in finding lost persons, searching ships, and some unexpected tasks.

Unlike war dogs, these shepherds are not trained to go for flesh or the throat. Instead they will leap for the gun or the right arm if their quarry offers trouble. Despite such a gentlemanly code of ethics, Cahill assures they are respected by the underworld. And, he added, they can be especially effective in stopping riots before they ever start.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it fair of my father to hold it against a boy just because he happens to have a beard?

Chet is an awfully nice kid. He may be a little eccentric, but so are a lot of artists, writers and musicians. Chet is 17 years old and he has red hair and freckles. I'll admit that a red beard is a bit of a shock when he walks into a room but is that a good enough reason for my dad to say he doesn't want to see that "screw-ball" around our house any more? Dad says I can go out with normal boys, but no nuts. Please, Ann, help me. — BROKEN HEARTED SOPHIE

DEAR BROKEN HEARTED: Sorry, but a 17-year-old kid with a red beard is too far out.

Chet is using the beard as a gimmick to draw attention to himself. Apparently he doesn't have enough confidence in his personality, his brains, or his achievements.

Tell Chet if he values your friendship to please shave and not try for Kooksville.

DEAR ANN: Our mother is divorced. We don't hear from Dad because he has remarried and lives out of town. He sends support money and Mom gets alimony.

I am a boy thirteen and I may not be very old but I'm old enough to know that a man shouldn't be sleeping on our couch almost every night. We are supposed to call him Uncle Jack, but he's no uncle, and that's for sure.

He keeps some of his clothes here and eats with us almost every night. We kids don't think this is very nice. The Ten Commandments says we are supposed to honor our mother. How can we? — ASHAMED KIDS

DEAR ASHAMED KIDS: Of course it isn't right, and you are to be congratulated for your good sense in the face of the poor example being set for you.

Every one of the Ten Commandments is good. I say to you kids, honor your mother, whether she deserves it or not. Maybe one day she'll be worthy of it.

DEAR ANN: The wisest thing for an employe to do when he catches a fellow-worker stealing is not to tell the thief — but to inform management, so a check can be put on him. Then when the thief is caught, he's caught by management, and no one else need be involved. —MR. D.

DEAR MR. D.: I am inclined to agree that your advice is better than mine. I yield to your more practical and realistic point of view. Thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a very worried mother who needs help. Our 13-year-old son has been promoted into the seventh grade and HE CANNOT READ.

How in the world he got so far in school I will never be able to understand. I put the blame squarely on the teachers who promoted him.

His grades were never anything to shout about but he never flunked anything. He must have fooled everybody by picking up just enough to get by from listening.

Yesterday when I asked him to read the directions off a cake box because I mislaid my glasses, I discovered he doesn't know even the simplest words such as "cup" and "mix." I'm shocked and disturbed. What kind of schools do we have in this country anyway? Is this what we are paying taxes for? Please tell me what to do with this boy.—W.W.W.

DEAR W.W.W.: I agree it's pretty sad commentary when a student who can't read is permitted to enter the seventh grade. If your son is thirteen and this is the first time you've heard him read aloud, where in heaven's name have you been? ? ?

Ask the school principal to direct you to a private tutor who specializes in remedial reading. Your son needs concentrated instruction and must be started at the A B C level.

Some mothers are able to manage with the help of proper textbooks, but you sound too emotionally involved with the boy. I suggest a trained professional.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dream Finally Comes To End

By JAMES BUCKNER

WELLS, Nev. (UPI) — The dream of an agricultural paradise in the midst of the Nevada wastelands will officially end this fall.

At that time the 27 remaining residents of Metropolis will be incorporated into a political subdivision of Wells. Wells lies 10 miles north of the community.

Metropolis opened its doors to Utopia-seekers back in 1910 at prices as high as $300 an acre on the Pacific Reclamation Company's promise of 13 inches of rain a year and an enormous dam to transform the arid desert into a checkerboard of wheat, pasture and produce farms.

No one seemed to doubt the city's future. Southern Pacific Railroad ran a spur into the heart of town to cart away the harvest and the $100,000 Metropolis Hotel opened its doors, boasting the finest food in the West. Legend has it the opening night banquet was so well attended, chicken a la king turned into "jackrabbit a la king" because of the unexpected crowds.

A newspaper, the Chronicle owned by the reclamation company, began stirring hopes even higher.

To further sustain its claims, the company set up a model farm near the existing supply of water. There a Chinese tenant farmer grew oats six feet high and a record yield of turkey red wheat, forcing the price of land even higher.

For the next two years it looked as if even the loudest claims couldn't match the facts as the rainfall lived up to its advance billing.

But then the dream began to totter as the drought years came and farmers watched their land crack and blow away.

Rabbit hunts were organized to feed those who remained.

To Offer Proposal

TOKYO (UPI)—Philippines Foreign Secretary Felixberto Serrano said Monday he will offer a proposal at the Colombo plan meeting next week which would "spare underdeveloped nations the humiliation of looking for handouts."

Serrano did not disclose details of his proposal.

Makes Prediction

BONN (UPI)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who will be 85 in January, says he will still be around in 1984. He would be 108 then. When Ernst Majonica, a member of Adenauer's Christian democratic party, recently told Adenauer a palm-reader had told him he would be foreign minister in 1984, the crusty old chancellor replied: "We must talk about that again in the 1980s. And why not? Titian was over 100 years old, and I haven't even started to paint."

Icebreaker Docks

MOSCOW (UPI) — The atomic icebreaker Lenin has docked at Murmansk to be prepared for the next navigation season, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Sunday. Last month, Tass said the Lenin completed its first arctic navigation season, having led about 100 sea ships and river fleets through the arctic ice between July 15 and Oct. 24.

Fatal Figures Given

NOVARA, Italy (UPI)—A government official has reported that since 1946, 962 local and federal police were killed on duty in Italy. Oscar Scalfaro, undersecretary for the Ministry of Interior, gave the figure during an election speech Saturday. He said that during the same period 30,316 policemen were injured on duty.

Opportunities for both the offense and defense were offered in today's hand from a recent tournament.

The four spade contract was reached at most tables and West opened the king of diamonds, which declarer permitted to hold. A diamond was continued, taken by the ace, and declarer ruffed the third round of the suit. Marking West with the king of hearts by reason of the double, South's only hope rested with forcing West to lead that suit. In addition to which, nature would have to prove kindly in relationship to the club suit.

Declarer then drew three rounds of trumps, winding up with the queen in the dummy. The nine of clubs was led and passed to West's queen. West exited with a diamond, which took declarer's last trump. Then came the ace and jack of clubs, putting West in with the king. Nature had been kind, and North's eight of clubs was promoted to winning rank. West's forced lead of a heart permitted declarer to win with the queen to bring his total of tricks to 10.

This was a neat bit of strategy, and declarer scored a well earned game. One other player in the South position chose precisely the same line of play in his game contract, but was not as well rewarded for his pains. West, in that case, snatched the game from the lion's jaws by a very tidy defensive coup.

For the first seven tricks play proceeded, trick by trick, as described above. But at trick eight, having won with the queen of clubs, West did not return the diamond. He realized the danger that declarer would set up the fourth club in dummy and, to prevent such an occurrence, he attacked dummy's entry by leading the king of hearts. He knew there was a likelihood that South held the queen but he also knew that, sooner or later in the end play, he must lead a heart. Accepting the inevitable at once, he succeeded in bottling up dummy, and declarer fell one short of his goal.

Local Woman Admitted To Law Practice

A local woman was admitted to the practice of law in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris.

She is Mrs. Ruth Foreman, wife of Thomas Foreman, supervisor of systems and procedure at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company. The couple resides on Sunset View, off Braddock Road. They have two children.

Mrs. Foreman is the second woman member of the bar in this county.

Mrs. Foreman was graduated from the University of Maryland Law School.

Mrs. Genevieve Yonker Schaffer, who lives at Flintstone, also is an attorney. She has been overseas with her husband, who is in the armed services, but is now living again in Flintstone, where her two children are enrolled in school. Her ranch-style home formerly was situated at the top of Polish Mountain but was moved down into Flintstone to make room for the new U. S. Route 40.

PROPERTY VALUE

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Economist Luigi Laurenti studied real estate values in seven cities and reports in his book "Property Values and Race," published by the University of California Press, that prices in neighborhoods entered by Negroes are four times as likely to rise or remain steady as they are to fall.

HOW IT HAPPENED

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)— Ever wonder how the blimp got its name?

During World War I, the British used a small, non - rigid airship which they called the "limp" to distinguish it from rigid zeppelins. The word "blimp" came into the language from a "Type B" limp airship which was widely used as a submarine spotter.

Nepotism is a word meaning favoritism shown to one's relatives.

County Dog Found In Chicago

George E. Davis, city tax collector, received an unusual communication in yesterday's mail, the delivery bringing a request from a Chicago resident for the person who purchased a 1959 dog license.

Mrs. George Swoik wrote Mr. Davis that she had found a small dog bearing an Allegany County license tag, issued last year and numbered 3067.

The Chicago woman said she felt sure the owner of the dog would like to have it returned, and asked Davis to furnish her the name and address so that she could contact the owner.

Davis indicated he would comply with the request.

80 Per Cent Vote Forecast For Maryland

Seven Congressmen Will Be Elected

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP)—A last-day threat of a voter challenge war in Baltimore County marked the close of one of the weirdest election campaigns in recent Maryland history.

Officials expect about 80 per cent of the 1,332,000 eligible voters to decide Tuesday whether Republican Richard M. Nixon or Democrat John F. Kennedy will get the State's nine electoral votes.

Also to be elected are seven members of the House of Representatives, nine circuit judgeships and two Baltimore People's Court judges.

Although the number of elective offices on the ballot is relatively small, there are also 15 proposed amendments to the State Constitution and a statewide question on whether Maryland should enter a new Potomac River Compact with Virginia.

"Ghost" Voting

The last-day campaign activity included an exchange of statements by Republican and Democratic officials on the subject of "ghost" voting.

Blandy Boocock, Baltimore County chairman of Volunteers for Nixon-Lodge, said his group was prepared to challenge hundreds of persons voting under certain names in Baltimore County. The volunteers group had announced earlier that 700 of 1,000 pieces of mail addressed to newly registered voters had been returned with notations that the addresses were deceased or otherwise unavailable.

And Osborne P. Beall, Republican campaign chairman for the county, instructed party polling place workers to request proof of the identity of all voters.

Democrats, who outnumber Republicans 926,000 to 323,000 in Maryland, hold a registration edge of 186,000 to 55,000 in Baltimore County. They heavily outregistered Republicans among voters signed up since the May 17 primary, especially in the heavily industrialized eastern end of the county.

"It is obvious that the registration books are full of 'deadwood' that could be voted if you do not exercise your vigilance," Beall said in his message to polling place workers.

Beall accused the Democrat-controlled election board of failing to cooperate with Republican officials who wanted to check the registration lists well in advance of the election.

Sign Voter's Card

Beall said this, plus a disclosure that "the FBI has moved into our county," lead him "to urge that you require, as you have every right to do,that every voter sign his name to the voter's card (for a comparison of signatures) before being permitted to vote."

The Democratic county campaign chairman, William Townsend, said his party did not object to legitimate challenging, but he suggested the Republican strategy was to delay voting in heavily Democratic areas, discourage time-pressed voters from voting at all, and thereby reduce the Democratic majorities in those areas.

"We are reliably informed at this point that the Republicans do intend to slow the voting by indiscriminate challenging," said Townsend.

"We do not intend to initiate such obstructionist tactics. But if we find that the Republicans are attempting to slow the two-minute voter to a ten-minute voter, then

Record Crowd Attends Final Democrat Rally

Standing Room Only Features Meeting

The largest Democratic rally ever held here on the eve of an election, was featured by a program of speeches, final instruction to workers and refreshments at the Eagles Hall last night.

William C. Walsh, one of the speakers, declared, "in more than 50 years of active work in every political campaign in this county, I do not recall a larger attendance, a better organized campaign or a more enthusiastic attitude." He predicted a Democratic sweep across the country and said, "in this county where we are a minority party, this election will prove that our people have had enough of the Republicans and the county can go Democratic just as it did for Roosevelt and Truman."

Judge Walsh noted that "organized labor is giving full support to the Democratic candidates and has been working for weeks getting ready for Election Day." He noted that the record attendance last night did not include many representatives from labor's Kennedy - Johnson - Foley committee, because they were having their own meeting at the Labor Temple, putting finishing touches on their precinct organization.

Expresses Gratitude

Thomas B. Finan, secretary of state and chairman of the state and county Democratic central committees, expressed his gratitude for the "standing room only" turnout. Every chair in the spacious hall was occupied and more than 60 people crowded the doorway and corridor and rear of the auditorium.

Mr. Finan declared, "if this enthusiastic attendance is any indication of what is going to happen tomorrow, then the Republicans have plenty to worry about."

"Worked Together"

Mr. Finan declared, "organized labor and the Democratic organization in this county have worked together before to put the county in the Democratic column. With the splendid organization formed for this campaign by the Democratic and campaign committees, augmented by a wonderful organization and determined, enthusiastic support of organized labor, victory is certain."

The speaker noted that the attendance, which counted more than 500 persons, included many young people and many women who were interested in the political picture for the first time. He said this is a good omen and shows that "we have awakened to the challenge that Mr. Kennedy has offered in his New Frontier."

William Walsh, member of the House of Delegates, served as master of ceremonies and presented a number of party leaders. William L. Wilson, and William B. Orndorff, co-chairman of the Kennedy campaign; Goodlow Jackson, chairman of the Foley campaign; Patrick Foley, brother of Congressman John R. Foley; Miller Bowen, county chairman; Thomas Conlon, member of the House of Delegates, and County Commissioners John J. Rowan and John T. Mason, were presented.

Mr. Wilson, Mr. Foley and Matthew J. Mullaney, chairman of the Board of Election Supervisors also spoke. Mr. Mullaney told workers to telephone the results of the vote as soon as the rally is made to election headquarters, PA-2-4600.

Today, checkers, workers, auto drivers, telephone solicitors, baby sitters, and other volunteers will be busy in every precinct, in an effort to get out a record vote, leaders said.

Party headquarters in the Algonquin Hotel and labor headquarters on North Liberty Street will be open all day.

Crisp And Sunny Weather Seen For Election Day

Crisp, sunny weather is in prospect for Election Day today and Allegany County's voters are expected to cast a heavy vote in the hotly-contested presidential and Sixth District congressional races.

Temperatures dropped below freezing in the Tri-State area yesterday morning following Sunday's snowstorm which lightly blanketed much of the section.

Cumberland had a low of 30 degrees yesterday morning. The temperature at Constitution Park here rose to a high of 40 during the day, before sliding back below freezing again last night. The mercury dipped to 31 degrees at 7:15 p.m. and was slowly falling.

West Virginia and Pennsylvania police reported temperatures in the low 30s much of the day with mountainous sections still covered by the snow which measured from a trace to as much as five inches throughout the tri-state.

The lowest reading in the area was reported yesterday morning by the State Roads Commission at Big Savage Mountain where 18 degrees was recorded.

Frostburg has some snow left on the ground yesterday morning with temperatures dipping to 24 degrees above zero.

Cinder trucks completed their jobs of wiping out slick spots in the highways in Garrett County and in the mountainous sections of West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Police last night said all highways are dry and driving conditions are good, although some snow remained in the mountains.

Oakland reported approximately 2½ inches of snow fell from Saturday through yesterday, with yesterday's flurries clearing in the late afternoon. High for the day was 33 degrees at Oakland with the low recorded at 22 degrees in the morning.

The mercury dropped to 20 degrees last night in Garrett County and was expected to go below 15 overnight.

Forecast for today is partly cloudy and sunny, warming slightly in the afternoon. High will be in the 40s.

City Files Exceptions On CAB Rule

Terms Port Adequate For Allegheny Planes

Exceptions to the initial decision of the Civil Aeronautics Board allowing Allegheny Airlines to discontinue service to Cumberland have been filed here.

The arguments were submitted by William R. Carscaden, city attorney, on behalf of the city of Cumberland, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the State Aviation Commission. They include the following arguments:

The decision of the examiners that the Cumberland Municipal Airport is inadequate fails to evaluate properly the joint exhibits filed for the city.

Training Similar

The decision fails to evaluate properly the fact that the airport is adequate for the type of equipment operated by Allegheny Airlines and that the airport was located and developed with the aid of the then Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The decision fails to recognize that pilots using the Cumberland airport with equipment similar to that used by Allegheny and larger aircraft must have similar training experience and qualifications as pilots of commerical airlines.

The decision that the airport is sufficient to meet FFA standards for equipment operated by Allegheny Airlines with a visibility limitation of 2,800 feet and two miles daylight on visual flying rules is inconsistent with the finding that Allegheny operates at all other points on instrument flight rules.

The decision that public convenience and necessity do not require recertification . . . .fails to evaluate properly exhibits filed for the City of Cumberland.

No Suggestions

No recommendation was made by any governmental agency as to what may be needed to solve the problems even though the City of Cumberland, would, if the cost

Phillips Firm Hopes To Lease State Land

Resources Board Gives Approval

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The Maryland Board of Natural Resources adopted a resolution Monday favoring a lease of some 6,000 acres of State-owned land in Western Maryland to the Phillips Petroleum Co.

However, the resolution must be approved by the State Board of Public Works before the lease can become effective.

Under terms of the resolution, Phillips would be required to pay $1 an acre per year for not more than 10 years.

The oil company also asked for a lease for storage purposes on the same land, in the event oil or natural gas should be discovered there. The $1 an acre per year terms also would apply to the second lease.

However, the Board of Natural Resources said the figure for the storage lease was too low and agreed to meet again at an undetermined date to hear any other proposals.

Phillips wants to use the land to explore for oil and natural gas. About two-thirds of the land is in western Washington County, the remainder in eastern Allegany County. Most of it is timber land.

The company did not indicate when the exploration would commence. A board member noted that Phillips' proposal was nothing new and that other oil companies had leased land in other parts of the state, especially the Eastern Shore.

The board acted on Phillips' proposals at nearby Woodmont.

Plaintiff Is Favored In Appeal

Total Disability Verdict Returned

A verdict for the plaintiff was returned yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court by an all-male petit jury which heard testimony in an appeal from a ruling of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

The jurors decided that Mrs. Josephine Blamble of Bedford Road is 100 per cent totally disabled as the result of injuries sustained in an accidental fall while she was a house-to-house saleslady for the Jewel Tea Company.

On April 8, 1960, the commission ruled that Mrs. Blamble was totally disabled, 60 per cent attributed to the accident and 40 per cent due to pre-existing conditions.

On that date the commission ordered that the company and self insurer pay Mrs. Blamble compensation for temporary total disability at the rate of $36.67 each week beginning August 7, 1959, and ending October 1, 1959, and compensation for permanent total disability at the rate of $36.67 per week beginning October 2 and not to exceed $12,000.

Mrs. Blamble alleged she was permanently totally disabled and none was due to pre-existing conditions.

Papers filed in court indicate the accident occurred in Eckhart on August 7, 1959, while Mrs. Blamble, an advance saleslady, was on company business.

After servicing a customer she fell down some steps and injured both ankles and subsequently suffered a heart attack, the paper stated. She was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Attorneys for the plaintiff were Simon F. Reilly and Peter J. Carpenti. Counsel for the company were Hugh A. McMullen and William H. Geppert. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided.

The two admitted standing at the Baltimore Street intersection on November 4, spitting at the freight train as it moved east into the local yards. They spit in the face of the flagman as he was standing on the platform of the caboose.

City police said the two were released into the custody of their parents and will be taken to Juvenile Court on charges of being delinquent.

Local police also reported the arrest of two other 16-year-old youths who are charged with the theft of eight cases of beer from a truck at the Cumberland Brewing Company on October 16.

The youths admitted the thefts, police said, but told authorities that most of the beer was in turn was stolen from them.

Police said two other youths are involved in the case. The boys were released in the custody of their parents pending a hearing in Juvenile Court.

Public Officials Will Back Program

The Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, last night congratulated its Six Point Program committee for progress to date in the plan designed to bring full employment to this area.

Members of the committee, at a meeting held last night in the Allegany Labor Temple, told delegates the program has been endorsed by the Mayor and Council of Cumberland, the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, United States Senator J. Glenn Beall and Sixth District Congressional candidates John R. Foley and Charles McC. Mathias.

Governor J. Millard Tawes and Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein have backed the program in public speeches, the AFL-CIO officials were told.

The Six-Point Program is being steered by a committee headed by Stanley Zorick, secretary-treasurer of the council and a member of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union.

Other members of the committee are F. Patrick Allender, business agent of Carpenters Local 1024; John G. Thomas, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union; Andrew Lewis, president of Local 180, Glass Workers Union, and Joseph V. Mullenax, president of the AFL-CIO council and a trustee of the Carpenters local.

The committee announced it plans to outline the program to Allegany County legislators at a meeting here this month.

Major points of the program are the inclusion of Route 40 in this area into the Interstate Highway System and development of the Upper Potomac River Basin. Four other points are designed to create conditions under which area industries would be encouraged to expand and new industries to locate in the Cumberland area.

Man Is Given Suspended Term Here

Joseph E. Matthews Fired At Trooper

Joseph Ellsworth Matthews, 27, Lonaconing, was given a one-year suspended sentence in the House of Correction yesterday in the attempted shooting of a State Trooper early Sunday morning.

Matthews waived a jury trial yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court and was found guilty of the criminal assault charge by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Trooper Bruce E. Diehl testified yesterday he had accompanied Lonaconing Police Officer George Duckworth to the Matthews residence about 1:30 a.m. Sunday after the Lonaconing officer had received a complaint about Matthews.

Just Missed Head

Trooper Diehl said when he approached the residence Matthews fired a shot from a .22 calibre rifle which just missed the trooper's head. Trooper Diehl said while he was calling the LaVale Barracks for assistance Matthews left the house and hid in the woods.

The trooper and several other officers returned to the scene Sunday and arrested Matthews at his home.

Matthews told the court he had been drinking Saturday night in Lonaconing, when one of his brothers told him that another brother was creating a disturbance at home.

Matthews said he returned home and when he saw a bedroom torn up, started out to look for the brother who had created the disturbance. He said two of his brothers tried to stop him and in the scuffle Matthews said he suffered a bad bump on his head. After receiving the blow, Matthews testified he did not remember a thing until he woke up in bed Sunday morning.

In addition to the suspended sentence, Magistrate Barnett placed Matthews on probation for two years and told the Lonaconing man to refrain from drinking and to be of good character.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason presented the case for the state yesterday, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya read a statement taken from Matthews yesterday morning.

Pennsylvania Police Solve Two Burglaries

Pennsylvania State Police solved the recent burglaries of the Colerain Township School and the Bedford Valley Sportsman's Club hunting lodge with the arrest of three Bedford area youths.

Authorities said two of the boys, Perry Karnes, 20, of RD 3, Bedford, and John R. Chalfont, 18, of Bedford, are being held in Bedford County Jail awaiting action of the next term of court on the burglary charges.

A 16-year-old boy also is implicated in the thefts, police said.

The three also reportedly stole a number of hub caps from automobiles parked at Bedford Springs Hotel last summer, officers stated.

Election Sidelights

In the last Presidential election 73 per cent of Allegany County voters went to the polls. At that time there were 40,497 registered and 32,501 persons voted on Election Day.

At that election in November 1956, 20,239 voted for Eisenhower and 10,775 cast their ballot for Stevenson in Allegany County.

Out of the 45 polling places in Allegany County, only Bowman's Addition carried a margin of victory for Stevenson in 1956. The vote there was 144 for Stevenson to 132 for Eisenhower.

Four years ago was the first year voting machines were used in the general election in Allegany County.

In 1956 Republican DeWitt S. Hyde won his third term as Congressman for the Sixth District by defeating John R. Foley by the count of 97,687 to 84,278.

Hyde tallied 17,040 votes in Allegany County in 1956 against 12,622 for Foley, a margin of victory here of 4,418 votes for the Republicans.

In 1958, however, Hyde lost to Foley by the district-wide count of 78,045 to 75,478. In that election, Hyde carried Allegany County by the margin of only 11,660 to 11,024.

A turnout of 68.6 per cent of the registered voters in the county cast ballots in 1958. At that time there were 37,623 registered and of this number 25,810 voted.

This year there are 40,663 registered voters in Allegany County and between 75 and 80 per cent are expected to go to the polls.

He predicted a Democratic sweep across the country and said, "in this county where we are a minority party, this election will prove that our people have had enough of the Republicans and the county can go Democratic just as it did for Roosevelt and Truman."

Judge Walsh noted that "organized labor is giving full support to the Democratic candidates and has been working for weeks getting ready for Election Day." He noted that the record attendance last night did not include many representatives from labor's Kennedy - Johnson - Foley committee, because they were having their own meeting at the Labor Temple, putting finishing touches on their precinct organization.

Expresses Gratitude

Thomas B. Finan, secretary of state and chairman of the state and county Democratic central committees, expressed his gratitude for the "standing room only" turnout. Every chair in the spacious hall was occupied and more than 60 people crowded the doorway and corridor and rear of the auditorium.

Mr. Finan declared, "if this enthusiastic attendance is any indication of what is going to happen tomorrow, then the Republicans have plenty to worry about."

"Worked Together"

Mr. Finan declared, "organized labor and the Democratic organization in this county have worked together before to put the county in the Democratic column. With the splendid organization formed for this campaign by the Democratic and campaign committees, augmented by a wonderful organization and determined, enthusiastic support of organized labor, victory is certain."

The speaker noted that the attendance, which counted more than 500 persons, included many young people and many women who were interested in the political picture for the first time. He said this is a good omen and shows that "we have awakened to the challenge that Mr. Kennedy has offered in his New Frontier."

William Walsh, member of the House of Delegates, served as master of ceremonies and presented a number of party leaders. William L. Wilson, and William B. Orndorff, co-chairman of the Kennedy campaign; Goodlow Jackson, chairman of the Foley campaign; Patrick Foley, brother of Congressman John R. Foley; Miller Bowen, county chairman; Thomas Conlon, member of the House of Delegates, and County Commissioners John J. Rowan and John T. Mason, were presented.

Mr. Wilson, Mr. Foley and Matthew J. Mullaney, chairman of the Board of Election Supervisors also spoke. Mr. Mullaney told workers to telephone the results of the vote as soon as the rally is made to election headquarters, PA-2-4600.

Today, checkers, workers, auto drivers, telephone solicitors, baby sitters, and other volunteers will be busy in every precinct, in an effort to get out a record vote, leaders said.

Party headquarters in the Algonquin Hotel and labor headquarters on North Liberty Street will be open all day.

City Files Exceptions On CAB Rule

Terms Port Adequate For Allegheny Planes

Exceptions to the initial decision of the Civil Aeronautics Board allowing Allegheny Airlines to discontinue service to Cumberland have been filed here.

The arguments were submitted by William R. Carscaden, city attorney, on behalf of the city of Cumberland, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the State Aviation Commission. They include the following arguments:

The decision of the examiners that the Cumberland Municipal Airport is inadequate fails to evaluate properly the joint exhibits filed for the city.

Training Similar

The decision fails to evaluate properly the fact that the airport is adequate for the type of equipment operated by Allegheny Airlines and that the airport was located and developed with the aid of the then Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The decision fails to recognize that pilots using the Cumberland airport with equipment similar to that used by Allegheny and larger aircraft must have similar training experience and qualifications as pilots of commerical airlines.

The decision that the airport is sufficient to meet FFA standards for equipment operated by Allegheny Airlines with a visibility limitation of 2,800 feet and two miles daylight on visual flying rules is inconsistent with the finding that Allegheny operates at all other points on instrument flight rules.

The decision that public convenience and necessity do not require recertification . . . fails to evaluate properly exhibits filed for the City of Cumberland.

No Suggestions

No recommendation was made by any governmental agency as to what may be needed to solve the problems even though the City of Cumberland, would, if the cost

Phillips Firm Hopes To Lease State Land

Resources Board Gives Approval

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — The Maryland Board of Natural Resources adopted a resolution Monday favoring a lease of some 6,000 acres of State-owned land in Western Maryland to the Phillips Petroleum Co.

However, the resolution must be approved by the State Board of Public Works before the lease can become effective.

Under terms of the resolution, Phillips would be required to pay $1 an acre per year for not more than 10 years.

The oil company also asked for a lease for storage purposes on the same land, in the event oil or natural gas should be discovered there. The $1 an acre per year terms also would apply to the second lease.

However, the Board of Natural Resources said the figure for the storage lease was too low and agreed to meet again at an undetermined date to hear any other proposals.

Phillips wants to use the land to explore for oil and natural gas. About two-thirds of the land is in western Washington County, the remainder in eastern Allegany County. Most of it is timber land.

The company did not indicate when the exploration would commence. A board member noted that Phillips' proposal was nothing new and that other oil companies had leased land in other parts of the state, especially the Eastern Shore.

The board acted on Phillips' proposals at nearby Woodmont.

Plaintiff Is Favored In Appeal

Total Disability Verdict Returned

A verdict for the plaintiff was returned yesterday afternoon in Allegany County Circuit Court by an all-male petit jury which heard testimony in an appeal from a ruling of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

The jurors decided that Mrs. Josephine Blamble of Bedford Road is 100 per cent totally disabled as the result of injuries sustained in an accidental fall while she was a house-to-house saleslady for the Jewel Tea Company.

On April 8, 1960, the commission ruled that Mrs. Blamble was totally disabled, 60 per cent attributed to the accident and 40 per cent due to pre-existing conditions.

On that date the commission ordered that the company and self insurer pay Mrs. Blamble compensation for temporary total disability at the rate of $36.67 each week beginning August 7, 1959, and ending October 1, 1959, and compensation for permanent total disability at the rate of $36.67 per week beginning October 2 and not to exceed $12,000.

Mrs. Blamble alleged she was permanently totally disabled and none was due to pre-existing conditions.

Papers filed in court indicate the accident occurred in Eckhart on August 7, 1959, while Mrs. Blamble, an advance saleslady, was on company business.

After servicing a customer she fell down some steps and injured both ankles and subsequently suffered a heart attack, the paper stated. She was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment.

Attorneys for the plaintiff were Simon F. Reilly and Peter J. Carpenti. Counsel for the company were Hugh A. McMullen and William H. Geppert. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris presided.

Man Is Given Suspended Term Here

Joseph E. Matthews Fired At Trooper

Joseph Ellsworth Matthews, 27, Lonaconing, was given a one-year suspended sentence in the House of Correction yesterday in the attempted shooting of a State Trooper early Sunday morning.

Matthews waived a jury trial yesterday afternoon in Trial Magistrate Court and was found guilty of the criminal assault charge by Magistrate Paul W. Barnett.

Trooper Bruce E. Diehl testified yesterday he had accompanied Lonaconing Police Officer George Duckworth to the Matthews residence about 1:30 a.m. Sunday after the Lonaconing officer had received a complaint about Matthews.

Just Missed Head

Trooper Diehl said when he approached the residence Matthews fired a shot from a .22 calibre rifle which just missed the trooper's head. Trooper Diehl said while he was calling the LaVale Barracks for assistance Matthews left the house and hid in the woods.

The trooper and several other officers returned to the scene Sunday and arrested Matthews at his home.

Matthews told the court he had been drinking Saturday night in Lonaconing, when one of his brothers told him that another brother was creating a disturbance at home.

Matthews said he returned home and when he saw a bedroom torn up, started out to look for the brother who had created the disturbance. He said two of his brothers tried to stop him and in the scuffle Matthews said he suffered a bad bump on his head. After receiving the blow, Matthews testified he did not remember a thing until he woke up in bed Sunday morning.

In addition to the suspended sentence, Magistrate Barnett placed Matthews on probation for two years and told the Lonaconing man to refrain from drinking and to be of good character.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason presented the case for the state yesterday, and County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya read a statement taken from Matthews yesterday morning.
